RELEASED AND ARRESTED.

Newport Man Finishes One Sentence and Likely to Get Another.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, July 11.—William H. Hunnewell of Newport this morning finished serving a 90 days' sentence at the Providence county jail. He did not get beyond that institution, however, as he was immediately taken into custody again by Deputy Warden Viall on a warrant issued by Chief of Police Baker of this city. He is charged with stealing hens owned by Mr. Brigham, a resident of Prospect street in this city, last March. Hunnewell was turned over to the Providence authorities and is being held for identification.

FOOD NOW CHEAPER.

Mayor of a Cuban City Compels Merchants to Reduce Prices.

HAVANA, July 11.—The influx of Cubans into Bayamo, province of Santiago de Cuba, in anticipation of payment for the surrender of their arms, continues, and the merchants of that place have attempted to profit unjustly by this situation. They raised prices beyond reason, whereupon the mayor argued with them, pointing out the injustice of their attitude. The merchants, however, refused to modify their prices and the mayor, therefore, issued an order regulating prices and providing a heavy fine for violation of the order. Food is now cheap and the price of liquors is high. There are about 6,000 men in and about the city, but there have been no disturbances.

The newspapers here have received despatches from Santiago de Cuba, asking them to thank Governor General Brooke for his efforts in behalf of the Cubans and for his orders to pay them as promptly as possible, which will prevent a great deal of suffering. The Spanish consul at Cienfuegos, Senor Alvarez Fernandez, has arrived there and has created an excellent impression. He has expressed the desire to assist in the progress of the country and to remove all bitterness of feeling which may exist in the minds of Spaniards there.

Settlement of the Tin Plate Difficulty in Prospect.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The conference between the American Tin Plate Company and the wage committee of the Amalgamated Association is expected to end today. A better feeling was displayed between the managers and the workingmen yesterday, and for the first time since the beginning of the conference some advance was made toward a settlement. The managers conceded a number of minor demands and indicated their willingness to have the annual shutdown of the plants during the summer months. Nothing final, however, was determined.

Death of an Indian Chief.

GOWANDA, N. Y., July 11.—King Tallchief, one of the most prominent Indians on the Cattaraugus reservation, is dead from fatty embolism, the result of a fractured leg caused by a kick from a horse.

SHOT IN CHURCH.

School Janitor Who Fails of Appointment Kills the Principal.

DALLAS, Texas, July 11.—In the midst of a protracted meeting at the First Christian Church last night John T. Carlisle arose, walked to where Professor William Lipscomb, principal of the Central High School, the leading educational institution of the city, was seated, and shot him without a word of warning. Carlisle was seized and jailed. He would not talk of the tragedy. Professor Lipscomb was reported dead at 10:45 o'clock.

Carlisle had been chief janitor of the high school, but failed to be re-appointed by the school board. He attributed his defeat for re-appointment to the professor's influence, and it is believed this was the cause of the murder. Carlisle is a cousin of former Secretary of the Treasury John G Carlisle.

WON BY ATLANTIC.

Brooklyn Whist Trophy Comes East This Year.

CHICAGO, July 11.—After a long and hard fought battle of 11 hours' duration, the Atlantic Auxiliaries' Association's team at 2 o'clock this morning finally won the Brooklyn trophy in the ninth annual congress of the American Whist League. For the next year the trophy will adorn an eastern clubhouse.

The last game was won from Chicago by only two points and the results hinged on this contest, as had the Atlantics not won there would have been a tie between them and Northwestern, which won from New England. The final results gave Atlantic four games, none lost; Northwestern three games won and one lost; Chicago, New England and New York, one game apiece won and three lost. The summary:

Atlantic scores four wins, beating New York, Chicago, New England and Northwestern; Northwestern won from New York, New England and Chicago, but lost to Atlantic; Chicago won from New England, but lost to Northwestern, New York and Atlantic; New England won from New York, but lost to Chicago, Atlantic and Northwestern; New York won from Chicago, but lost to Atlantic, Northwestern and New England.

Queensland Ready to Aid England Against the Transvaal.

BRISBANE, Queensland, July 11.—The government of Queensland has cabled to the secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, offering 250 mounted infantry, with a machine gun, for service in South Africa in case of hostilities between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

Yellow Fever Patient Steadily Improving.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mr. Doty, the health officer, reports that Oscar F. Lackey, the yellow fever patient, is steadily improving. His temperature was 100 this morning; it touched normal last evening and will probably be normal today. He is about to receive some nourishment and his stomach is improving all the time.

ONLY ONE LOST.

More Than a Hundred Rescued from the Portia.

Struck on Big Fish Shoal, Near Halifax, and Wrecked.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 11.—Passenger steamer Portia, which for some years has been engaged in the old established Red Cross line service between New York, Halifax and St. John's, Newfoundland, met with a disaster last night to the westward of Halifax harbor, which will end her career.

The spot where the Portia struck is known as Big Fish shoal, which lies about a mile and a quarter southwest of Sambro light and half a mile to the east of inner Sambro island. The weather was extremely thick at the time and there was a heavy southwest swell on the sea. The Portia, which left New York at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, arrived off the mouth of the harbor a couple of hours before running on the shoal, and when that misfortune came upon her she was proceeding at slow speed, owing to the impenetrable mist which hung upon the water.

The loss of the Portia was attended by the drowning of one person, an Assyrian boy 12 years old, known only by the name of Bashi, who was traveling second class from New York to St. John's, where his mother lives. The escape of all the others on board the steamer, numbering 70 passengers and a crew of 34 officers and men, is accounted extraordinary, considering the perilous and exciting incidents accompanying the wreck.

The accounts of the wreck which reached here last evening showed that the passengers and crew had effected the abandonment of the doomed ship with comparative ease, but the stories brought to the city this morning by those who suffered and lost by it showed that the escape from death was not accomplished so easily as was indicated by last night's details. The launching of the lifeboats was effected as quickly as possible after the Portia struck on Big Fish shoal. The steamer had mounted the rocks with a terrible crash, the half-speed at which she was steaming carrying her partly over the shoal and the strong southwest swell moving her gradually forward and threatening to plunge her into deep water beyond, where many would have found watery graves were they not released from their great danger.

No excitement manifested itself amongst the large party of passengers, the calmness of almost everybody seeming extraordinary. The women conducted themselves with a degree of self-possession remarkable under the circumstances, though wrought with fears and separated for a time from husbands and brothers.

Captain Farrell and his officers proved themselves equal to the occasion and their well directed efforts on behalf of those in their care, coupled with the coolness of the passengers and men in obeying orders, proved the salvation of the ship's entire company; all except the poor little fellow, whose death is inexplicable, because nobody can explain it beyond stating the fact that he had been there but wasn't there when they came to look for him. He had been seasick before the wreck occurred, and it was thought he might be lying down in some obscure part of the vessel, but a search made as carefully as possible under the hurried conditions failed to discover him and there is no doubt that he perished. He was the only one lost of the 104 men, women and children on the steamer.

Steamers A. C. Whitney and L. Boyer, which left Halifax at 11:30 last night, returned this morning with the whole party. They were a sorry looking crowd of pleasure seekers as they stepped ashore at the Red Cross line wharf, but though they looked tired and distracted, especially the women and children, their hearts were filled with gratitude at their happy deliverance from the dangers of the night. Many of them were without head covering and not more than two or three carried satchels, while larger pieces of baggage were nowhere in evidence, it being clear that everything of their ordinary belongings had been swept away. A number of them reported losing money and some of them said they had lost jewels, but none told of any very heavy loss of valuables. All naturally lamented their inability to save their personal baggage, but they soon forgot this in the overwhelming joy of their own preservation.

When Captain Farrell returned to the scene a few hours later, on the Sambro lobster steamer Ralph E. S., it was found that the Portia had been carried entirely over the shoal and sunk in nine or 10 fathoms of water, a short distance on the other side, only the topmasts being visible above the surface.

F. M. Clarke, a college student and a resident of New York, says one particularly brave act was performed by the second engineer, Thomas Service. The engineer opened the furnace doors at the second shock, and in a moment a great rush of water came through and blackened the fires. Clarke says that Service then sealed a ladder and started the pumps to work, so as to relieve the steamer's hold of some water washing in. After doing that, all the time subjecting himself to great danger, he hurried back again and opened the valves of the boilers, thus preventing a possible explosion.

There were clergymen on board and all did excellent service in assisting other passengers into the boats. They were Rev. Fathers Broderick, McElfery and O'Reilly of New York.

Pilot James Gibbons of Hell Gate was also on the Portia. He had with him a boat of his own and when the disaster occurred his craft came in very handy.

John J. Cornwall, a newspaper man of West Virginia, speaks in the warmest terms of the heroism of the captain and crew, especially the captain, who refused to leave the ship until the last person, as he fully believed, was out of her.

UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG.

Shipping Privileges Extended to Porto Rico and the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An order has been issued by the President extending the privileges and protection of the American flag to the shipping of Porto Rico and the Philippines. All ships owned by residents of these islands at the time of the exchange of ratification of treaties are included in the order.

SHAMROCK LEAKING.

Ordered into Dry Dock to Repair a Damaged Plate.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 11.—It is reported that the cup challenger Shamrock is leaking and that she has been ordered into dry dock for the purpose of repairing a plate which was discarded when she grounded on her arrival at Southampton from London, June 28.

NOW DECREASING.

Serious Outbreak of Yellow Fever on the Panama Isthmus.

NEW YORK, July 11.—According to the Colon "Starlet" of June 29, which reached the city this morning by steamer Finance, it has been many years since the Panama isthmus has been visited with such an outbreak of yellow fever as prevailed in the city of Pana this year. From May 20 to June 3 there had been 34 cases of malignant disease, of which 18 had been fatal. June 20 there had been 33 new cases, two of which had been fatal. At the time of publication the fever was on the decrease.

NONE IN LAST EIGHT DAYS.

Revised List of Cases and Deaths at Santiago.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Surgeon Sternberger has received two cables from Major O'Reilly, chief surgeon at Havana, regarding the yellow fever situation. In the first he says: "Havana at Santiago telegraphs revised list today, showing 122 cases with 24 deaths, including four officers—Fabricius, Clendennin, McLaughlin and Heatwole; also 20 civilian cases and five deaths. No cases in camp in last eight days. Headquarters ordered to interior."

The other despatch reports two additional cases of yellow fever at Manzanillo, five in all.

M'KINLEY'S CONDOLENCE.

Tenders His Regrets at the Death of the Russian Duke.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The President has sent the following message of condolence upon the occasion of the death of Prince George of Russia:

"To His Imperial Majesty Nicholas II, Czar of Russia, St. Petersburg:

"I tender to Your Majesty, in my own name and in the behalf of the American people, sincere condolences by reason of the affliction that has befallen Your Majesty and the Russian nation in the death of your brother, His Imperial Highness the Grand Duke George.

"WM. M'KINLEY."

Three Months' Court Mourning for the Czarewitch.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 11.—Three months' court mourning for the death of the czarewitch, Grand Duke George of Russia, brother of the czar, who died yesterday of consumption, has been ordered.

Mobilizing for the British Naval Manoeuvres.

LONDON, July 11.—Mobilizing for the naval manoeuvres began today, 118 warships and about 25,000 men taking part in the operations. One of the principal objects of the manoeuvres is to exhaustively study the value of torpedo boat destroyers, of which 51 are engaged.

British Warships at Delagoa Bay.

LOURENZO MARQUEZ, Delagoa Bay, July 11.—British second-class cruiser Boris and first-class gunboat Widgeon, with Rear Admiral Sir Robert H. Harris, in command of the Cape and West Africa station, on board the cruiser, have arrived here.

Orleanist Intrigues Confirmed.

PARIS, July 11.—At a cabinet meeting today the minister of the interior confirmed the authenticity of the Orleanist intrigues set forth in the report of the prefect of police, published by the Gazette de France yesterday, and an investigation was made in order to find out how it reached the newspapers.

Customs Receipts at Havana.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The War Department announced today that the customs receipts at the port of Havana for June were $1,012,893. The total receipts for the first six months of 1899 are $5,146,830.

OPEN MONDAY EVENINGS.

This Morning's News.

TO STAMP OUT YELLOW FEVER.

General Wood Begins Active Work at Santiago.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 10.—This morning General Leonard Wood, the military governor, arrived here from the United States, and immediately began vigorous action to stamp out the yellow fever. He finds the situation more serious than he had anticipated. Tomorrow the headquarters will be moved to Songo, 20 miles north, which is about 1,000 feet above sea level. All the administrative departments, except the sanitary and a few immune clerks in the quartermaster's and commissary staffs, will also be removed to that point.

The paymaster has been ordered to suspend all payments to the Cuban troops until the fever has been stamped out, the special object of the order being to prevent the soldiers from drinking during the epidemic.

Many predict that there will be trouble when the United States troops are entirely removed from the city, as there are many hundreds of destitute Cuban soldiers already there. They are expecting payment, and have been, though for the best reasons, put off for a month.

SHERMAN AGAIN SICK.

Former Secretary of State Not Expected to Rally.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Ex-Secretary Sherman is again so ill at his home in Mansfield, according to information received here today, that he is expected to die at any time. His wonderful recuperative powers may pull him through, but his condition for a man of 76 is regarded as so serious as almost to preclude hope.

If he recovers he will have to give up all ideas of future participation in politics, and his friends here fear he would not even be able to return to Washington. He has reached the end of his political career, if not the end of his life.

His wife, who seems to have recovered partially, and other relatives are with him, and he has, of course, the best of care, General and Mrs. Miles have been visiting the Shermans, but General Miles and Mr. Sherman have not been able to talk about public affairs, because, for a fortnight past, Mr. Sherman has been in such a critical condition. It he recovers now, it is said, it will be more remarkable than was his extraordinary recovery from the attack of pneumonia in the West Indies.

President McKinley expressed great regret upon learning of Mr. Sherman's condition, and has taken pains to be kept informed of the developments in his case.

TO BE RELEASED.

American Prisoners Held by Japan Under Consular Sentences.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—When the new treaty between the United States and Japan becomes operative, July 17, American prisoners held by the Japanese authorities in connection with sentences of consular courts will be liberated. All criminal and civil business before the consular courts will end, and entirely new proceedings must begin in Japanese courts, if the plaintiffs care to continue them.

It was learned today that the State Department has been making careful inquiry into the status of American prisoners and the business before the consular courts, in part because of the representations made by Japan. It has been pointed out that the new treaty does not provide for the transfer of prisoners to the Japanese authorities, their return to the United States or their future disposition at all, and that consequently they must be released. Only one of the prisoners is confined on conviction for a grave offence. It is Kelly, an American citizen, found guilty of murder several years ago, and sentenced to a long term. Few civil suits are pending before the consular courts, and none of much importance.

PORTSMOUTH.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

The regular meeting of the town council and court of probate for July was held at the town hall Monday afternoon, with all the members present.

In court of probate inventories of the estates of Mary B. Coggeshall, Mary Marks, Daniel Sullivan and Harry A. Tallman were allowed and ordered recorded.

Henry F. Anthony, administrator on the estate of Daniel Sullivan, presented his petition for authority to sell at private sale certain articles enumerated in the inventory, which was received and granted.

The final account of Mary Ann Faulkner, administratrix on the estate of William H. Faulkner, was continued to the second Monday in August.

The petition of Cordelia L. Sisson, widow of Charles L. Sisson, praying that she be appointed administratrix on the estate, was granted, she to furnish a bond for $2,500, with Winfield S. Sisson as surety. Appraisers, Winfield S. Sisson, Edward Almy and Charles Carr.

The petition of Ruth M. Manchester, Mary E. Peckham and Sarah F. Peckham, praying that Joel Peckham of Middletown be appointed administrator on the estate of Eliza M. Manchester was granted, bond being fixed at $3,500, with Henry Anthony as surety. Appraisers, Rosecom P. Manchester, William H. Gifford and Thomas Manchester.

Sarah A. Easterbrooks, Olivia P. Talbee and Georgiana Douglass presented a petition praying that Lorenzo D. Tallman be appointed administrator on the estate of Susan C. Fish, which was referred to the second Monday in August, with an order of notice in the Newport Daily News.

Belle L. Tallman, administratrix on the estate of Harry A. Tallman, presented a petition praying that she be authorized to sell at private sale the articles enumerated in the inventory at prices not less than the appraisal, which petition was granted.

Belle L. Tallman, widow of Harry A. Tallman, presented a petition asking that a sum sufficient for the comfortable support of her family for six months be allowed her from the estate, and the value of the inventory appraisal was allowed in answer to said petition.

In town council the petition of Eunice A. Greene and others, that the town council use the power vested in it to stop "the violation of the laws of God and man" in the opening of many refreshment and victualing houses at Island Park and its vicinity, was received and the petitioners given leave to withdraw.

The petition of Maxime Anclair for a license to open and maintain a shooting gallery upon the premises of Rhobly Barrett, on Island Park, in accordance with Chapter 101 of the General Laws of Rhode Island, was received and granted.

Town Sergeant William T. Harvey was directed to stop all shooting galleries or shooting practice in Portsmouth during Sundays.

The following persons were drawn as jurors to serve in the common pleas division of the supreme court during the year ending on the third Monday in July, 1900:

Grand—Albert F. Grinnell, Edward B. Anthony, Joseph Anthony, Charles E. Ashley, Frederick A. Coggeshall, Charles Carr, William H. Tallman.

Petit—Richard R. Macomber, John G. Barker, Pemberton H. Powel, Frank H. Dyer, Peter D. Boyd, William H. Gifford, Penman C. Main, Charles Grinnell, Edward A. Coggeshall, Thomas J. Sweet, Herbert F. Hall, Joshua S. Fish, H. Anthony Cook, Edward T. Sisson, Herbert Chase, Charles L. Tallman.

The following bills were ordered paid: C. Henry Dyer, for repairs on highways in district No. 4, $19.50; Gideon Manchester, three months' services as tender of draw at Stone Bridge, from March 25 to June 25, $37.50; William T. Harvey, four weeks' assistance to outside poor, $6; Henry Anthony, repairs on highways in district No. 1, $66.48; Joseph Coggeshall, school supplies purchased of E. Babb & Co., $35.50; Robert H. Manchester, one canvasser's act H. Manchester, one canvassers' act H. Manchester, one special session, $2.50, meeting, $12; one special session, $2.50.

The second regular meeting of the school committee for the present school year was held in the town hall Monday afternoon, with five of the members present—Jonathan A. Sisson, Joseph Coggeshall, James Sweet, John T. Gardner and William A. Chase.

The matter of changing the readers, which had been referred to this meeting, was taken up and discussed at great length. The same woman agent who was present at the last meeting again urged the claims of the book she represents, but as two members were absent it was voted to postpone the matter to the next meeting.

A petition was received from district No. 5, asking for the approval of a tax of $75 for the necessary repairs voted by the district.

Rev. Reginald Pearce, who for the last year has been assistant rector of Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, has resigned his position and is spending some time with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. Sturgis Pearce.

There was an accident near the Stone Bridge Monday afternoon caused by a horse being frightened by an electric car. An old man was thrown out and injured. Superintendent Fillmore took him to Fall River on a special car.

The mother of the Portuguese triplets is very ill and is not expected to survive.

The report of the Portsmouth Free Public Library for the month of June was as follows: Whole number of books loaned, 291; fiction, 196; miscellaneous, 5; new books added, 18.

ACCIDENT TO THE KANAWHA.

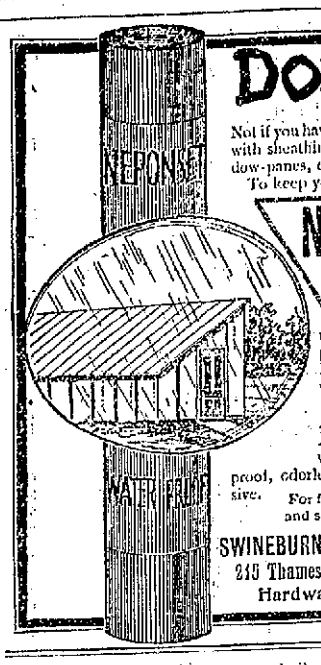

Most of the members of the Providence division, Naval Reserve battalion, who went on the Kanawha when the division started on a practice cruise of a week on the afternoon of Independence day, returned to Providence last night, although some reached there in the afternoon. The Kanawha is lying at Shelter Island Harbor, N. Y., with two boiler tubes blown out.

After the parade of the division in Providence 26 of the members, with Lieutenant Eiswald in command, started for a cruise of a week. The officers of the division present were Lieutenant (junior grade) Talbot and Ensign Lawton, with Lieutenant Peckham, battalion surgeon. The steamer went to New London, where water was taken on board.

Between New London and New Haven one of the boiler tubes rusted out and leaked. The supply of fresh water was exhausted practically before the leak was discovered, and then, according to the statement of one of the members of the division, sea water was used.

At New Haven the boiler tube was repaired, and the vessel went to Greenport, Long Island, and from there to Shelter Island Harbor, where two more blew out, partly it is thought from the use of the sea water. A telegraph message for a tug was sent to New London Sunday, but no assistance was sent, and a party of 13 of the members of the division went to that city in a sailboat and returned home.

The others started back yesterday. The trip had been entirely successful until the accident occurred. The boat is in charge of Lieutenant Eiswald, and will be repaired and brought back to Providence.

Care of the Eyes.

Avoid sudden changes from dark to brilliant light, avoid the use of stimulants and drugs which affect the nervous system, avoid reading when lying down or when mentally or physically exhausted. When the eyes feel tired rest them by looking at objects at a long distance. Do not decide on your own judgment in selecting spectacles, but consult an experienced optician. You will find our Mr. Hems will tell you whether you need glasses and the proper kind required. We do this free of charge.

IN BOOK LAND.

THERE was once a fair garden called Eden, which we have reason to believe was unrivalled in beauty by any horticultural exhibit of later years. In this Adam delved, and perhaps he was thus employed when, as we are told, God saw that "his creation was good." There is certainly a natural affinity which calls man to work in earth. The child feels the summons of the soil, and is happiest when digging or moulding it. It is rare that manhood completely grows away from its hold upon his senses and affections, and at the last some force born in generations of ancestors compels us to think it a sweet and natural refuge for the body.

The main uses of the earth to man are three; for subsistence, for health, for pleasure. Its fruits nourish and enrich mankind; its benefactions preserve his life, his vigor, his sanity; its garden and forests yield enduring delights. The pleasure garden—yes, even the veriest strip of border filled with plants from the glowing burden of a huckster's cart, and scarcely more the acres of bowers and colonnades and terraces which are the rich man's at his command—the pleasure garden is primarily a Retreat. To it the harassed man comes fleeing as to a city of refuge from perplexities, burdens and griefs, and every leaf and petal breathes to him an unctious and separate healing. We say with Epicurus: "Hither, to these banks of serpolet; to these strawberries, whose dying leaves breathe a most refreshing fragrance; to this ivy, from which Bacchus might have crowned himself, let us retire at the voice of Discord. Do we look for Truth? She is not the inhabitant of cities, nor delights in clamour."

We suppose that in that period of American adolescence when all the bedsteads were of black walnut, portentously solid and erect; at least one room shrouded with furniture covered with the slipperyest horsehair, and all the gardens, forsaking the charming tangles of grandmotherly hollyhocks and sweet william and daffodils and tiger lilies and all the rest of the friendly flowers, were laid out in Brussels and Axminster and Moquette designs, in tortuous and intricate arabesques of coleus and geranium, sold in assorted hundreds as bedding plants—we suppose that this love for his garden timidly joined with his honest and boastful pride in the possession of the most abnormal atrocity of the neighborhood, because the love is ineradicable. Yet we have scarcely the patience to comprehend it. Even Bacon, so far in advance of times far in advance of his own, disdainfully says: "As for the making of Knots, or Figures, with Divers Coloured Earths, that they may lie under the Windowes of the House, on that side which the Garden stands, they be but Toyes; you may see as good Sights, many times, in Tarts."

We moderns believe that the times of that vulgar perversion of taste cannot return. We have troops of perennials in our gardens, which, blossoming, brighten the days from the appearance of the blue scilla and the snowdrop to the fall of the last scarlet rose-haw. We have done with distortions, we think; we study the inclination of the plant, its preferences and happiness, and in return every sense is refreshed. Yet twenty years ago only conservative households spared these old-fashioned treasures and their restoration to favor and their rightful dignity is due not to a cycle of fashion but to the persistent teachings and enthusiasm of a very few men. To them our gardens owe their deliverance from folly and the nakedness in which they shivered more than half the year.

One of these is a man whom Newporters know, whose relaxation for years has been the love of floriculture, and whom many beyond the confines of the little group of nature students whose saunterings in his company were enriched by his talks on trees and their diversities regard as an expert in horticultural knowledge. It is a matter for gratitude that Mr. Lucius D. Davis has been enabled to complete the book treating especially of "Ornamental Shrubs," and bearing that title, which had its inception more than a decade ago and which Messrs. G. P. Putnam's Sons now bring out. There has not been until now any thoroughly up-to-date treatment of this particular subject. Charles S. Newhall's book on "Shrubs of Northeastern America" was published some years ago, and of course he was unable to embody in his text the many constantly improving novelties which each year since has brought forth.

Mr. Davis writes in his familiar succinct and simple fashion a record of shrubs desirable for the land owner, whether of a fifty-foot lot or a hundred-acre domain. Technicalities are avoided so far as is possible, that the uses and advantages of each plant may be displayed without confusion. The short plant histories give the homely common name, with that used by the scientific botanist, and dwell particularly on the colors of leaves, branches and flowers at different seasons, habits of growth, etc., so that one can plan with its aid a reliable color scheme for a knoll or a landscape. To its usefulness it adds the beauty of fine letter-press and plentiful illustrations—more than a hundred of these are included.

It is not in accordance with accustomed policy for the News to praise its work or that of its staff; yet perhaps in this column it is allowable to say a few of those things which Newporters hold in their memories. Not a few of our streets are shadowed by traceries of trees grown under the inspiration of the author of this book, and still more of our lawns and gardens have been enriched and beautified through his private and public horticultural discussions. Though neither a gardener nor a professional landscape architect, it was through his efforts that the "Newport" Nursery was established, and his contributions to magazine literature in this special line are regarded as coming from expert authority, and his constant, quiet influence has been exerted towards the preservation of the beauty and charm of this city. It is to be hoped that from the treasures already stored he may yet give us the natural sequels to "Ornamental Shrubs," treating of hardy perennials and the decorative trees.

Reading of the special graces of each shrub, one longs to begin the planting; here the golden-leaved copse which gilds the chill of a March rain, there the purple and silver and rose of another group, yonder the winter's scarlets and rubies and ambers of the bird-tempting berry-bearers. Indeed, as Landor says: "To render it sweet and sacred the heart must have a little garden of its own, with its umbrage and fountains and perennial flowers; a careless company.

SMYRNA FIGS IN CALIFORNIA.

The larger part of our fig supply comes from Asia Minor, the Spanish Peninsula and the south of France. Those of Asiatic Turkey are considered the best. Certain hymenopterous insects of the genera Blastophaga and Sycophaga which frequent the wild fig enter the minute orifice of the receptacle, apparently to deposit their eggs, conveying thus the pollen more completely to the stigmas, thus insuring the fertilization and consequent ripening of the fruit. By some the nature of the process has been questioned and the better maturation of the fruit attributed merely to the stimulus thus given by the puncture of the insect, as in the case of the apple, but the arrangement of the unisexual flowers in the fig renders the first theory most probable.

A year ago the Department of Agriculture began a series of experiments on the introduction of the insect which fertilizes the Smyrna fig, an agent being sent to Europe to obtain cuttings of all varieties of the wild fig and to send over the fruit containing the live insect. By good fortune some of the insects succeeded in penetrating the closed flowers of the Capri figs and laid their eggs and really established themselves in California. It is now believed that the insects will continue to breed and that in the near future a fig will be placed upon the market which will possess the same superior flavor as that which has given the imported Smyrna fig its present popularity. The flavor seems to be dependent upon the number of ripened seeds within the fruit. This feature has been ascertained through experiments in the artificial fertilization of the Smyrna figs grown in California. Trials were made with the transfer of the pollen from the Capri figs by means of a toothpick and a blowpipe. In this way a large number of seeds were fertilized and the characteristic flavor of the European fig was noticed.—[Scientific American.

Hashed Little Neck Clams. Melt pat of butter in chafing dish, then put in three dozen little neck clams, hashed fine, and their juice; add a teaspoonful of chopped shives and two of parsley. Cook over open fire until it boils up twice, cover on, thicken with bread crumbs, add two tablespoonfuls of sherry, season to taste and serve on toast.

Potatoes a la Brabasonne. Prepare some thick mashed potatoes; add one tablespoonful each of chopped white onions and parsley, salt, pepper and nutmeg to taste and four ounces of grated cheese—Edam. Pour into a baking dish, with cheese on top, bread crumbs and butter. Bake until brown in hot oven.

Gooseberry Fool. Put one pound of green gooseberries, "topped and tailed" and washed, into a saucepan with a cup of cold water. Stew very gently until well cooked, adding half a pound of sugar when nearly done. Stir hard and rub through a wire sieve. Before it is cold beat in a cup of milk and one of cream. Put on the ice, and when quite cold serve with whipped cream.

REV. J. H. MACDONALD TO GO TO EAST GREENWICH.

It is understood that Rev. James H. MacDonald has been elected principal of East Greenwich Academy, although Rev. D. A. Whedon, D. D., president of the board of directors, has not given any information as to whether anybody has yet been chosen as Dr. Blakeslee's successor. Information reached East Greenwich Saturday, on what is apparently good authority, that Rev. Mr. MacDonald is to be the new principal.

Mr. MacDonald is well known in Newport where he was two years pastor of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church, going thence to St. Paul's Church, Fall River, where he is now located. He is about 35 years old, a graduate of East Greenwich Academy, and studied at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., leaving before the completion of his course. He worked hard to get an education during his boyhood, living at Hope and weaving in a cotton mill. Later he taught a public school to increase his funds and worked his way upward to the ministry. He has been known in the conference as an energetic preacher and church worker. He has been a member of the New England Southern Conference since 1890, being admitted that year at the annual conference in this city and being appointed in that and the following year to Nantasket, in 1892 to East Weymouth, and coming thence to the Thames Street Church.

THE SEARCH FOR THE BLUE ROSE.

"Il n'y a eu la qu'une rose bleue: c'est a dire une rose que l'on reve, que l'on respire, mais que l'on ne cueille jamais."

Roses red and roses white
Are indeed for our delight;
Then the rose of gold we own,
But the rose of blue 's unknown.

'Tis the dream of gardens glad,
Dream of what may still be had,
Like a presence in the air,
Breathing perfume sweet and rare.

God has so bewitched the mind,
Mystery of love to find;
Given the thought as distant star,
Till we reach it from afar!

Only long it lingers well,
Seeking of itself to tell;
And the world becomes divine,
All because blue roses shine.

Even though the dream of bliss
We were fated here to miss,
It reveals a blest before,
Where are roses we adore!

THE BLUE ROSE FOUND.

"The blue rose, it seems, quite unexpectedly made its appearance in a Continental garden. Kizanlik, in Bulgaria, whence the rarity is imported, is a district renowned for its attar of roses, and consequently the flowers are grown on a very large scale. M. Stantcheff, when visiting his collections one day, noticed on a bush that had hitherto produced blooms of a pale rose color five greenish-blue roses of a hue revealing the delicate tints of the turquoise."—[London Post.

It has been found—this rose at last,
As gift of nature gladly cast,
Where roses in abundance grow,
The dream of man in love to show.

It was surprise to see it there,
To notice it with queenly air,
To look into its mystic face,
And rich result of hope to trace.

Thus man pursues his onward course,
Impelled by faith and holy force,
Which means the heaven above to be,
The one our eyes below shall see.

Each gift that thus upon him steals
Another hiding joy reveals;
There is no end of blessed things,
Of wondrous growths in coming springs.

And where the roses most abound
The great discovery is found;
The very dream, like sunshine sweet,
Its own reality must meet.

Bright hope is fact in folded leaf,
That waits its June, or long or brief;
And here, or in the blest above,
There's yet the blue rose of our love.

LIVING IN THE KLONDIKE.

One of the pioneer gold seekers, Dr. Sweeney, was fortunate in meeting with George W. Carmack, the discoverer of the Klondike, and from him he gathered much interesting information concerning the habits of the Indian tribes on the Yukon and the white men who long before the discovery of the treasure hidden beneath the frozen moss and gravel of the Klondike valley lived with them and shared the hardships of their daily life.

"Some of the things that Carmack told me," said Dr. Sweeney, "were entirely new to me, and all very interesting. One of the things I have always been anxious to know was how the white men lived who hunted and trapped along the Yukon in the days when it was thousands of miles to the trading posts and civilization. Carmack explained to me.

"'We were compelled,' he said, 'to do just as the Indians did. In the summertime, besides game and fish, we ate berries, for Alaska is the home of all sorts of berries. And besides these we obtained other substitutes for the vegetables of civilization. The principal of these were grass roots, certain small bulbs or tubers, and the inside bark of various trees.

"'In the winter we ate fish, meat and berries, which the squaws dried in the summer and stored away. Then, also, the little bulbs I have mentioned came in very handily. I have forgotten now what they were called, but they, as all old Alaska men know, form the principal food of the timber squirrels of that country during the winter. It was by rifling the hoards of these little animals that we obtained our supply of the bulbs in the winter. Their hoards are always to be found in a solitary spruce tree in a thicket of stunted pines. That was the way in which we located them. The reason for this I never knew. As a substitute for bread—of course, the Indians then had no flour—we ate a species of pudding, made of the blood of the game we killed, boiled with dried berries and sometimes with the little bulbs from the squirrel hoards.'

"I asked Carmack how the Indians in those days obtained salt for their meat. Every one knows that, to a white man at least, salt is a necessity, and not a mere flavoring matter. In answer Carmack told me something that was entirely new to me. He said that the Indians made it a practice not to throw away the water in which they boiled their meat, but allowed it to remain in the kettle. In course of a short time, he told me, the water or broth would become extremely salty and could then be maintained at whatever degree of saltiness deemed desirable by the addition of fresh water to replace some of the salt broth dipped out and thrown away."—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

BARRELS OF SAMPLES.

Over Two Hundred Thousand Trial Bottles Sent Free by Mail.

By special arrangement with the manufacturers of that justly famous Kidney medicine, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, the readers of the Newport Daily News are enabled to obtain a trial bottle and pamphlet of valuable medical advice absolutely free, by simply sending their full name and postoffice address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., and mentioning this paper.

Of course this involves enormous expense to the manufacturers, but they have received so many grateful letters from those who have been benefited and cured of the various diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation, and all weaknesses peculiar to women, that they willingly send trial bottles to all sufferers.

Upon investigation it was found that 91 per cent of those who had used the trial bottle had received such benefit from it that they purchased large sized bottles of their druggists.

It matters not how sick you are or how many physicians have failed to help you send for a trial bottle of this great medicine; it costs you but a postal card, and benefit and cure will most certainly be the result.

Put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment or if it is pale or discolored, milky or cloudy, stringy or ropy, your Kidneys or Bladder are in a bad condition. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, inability to hold urine, a burning, scalding pain in passing it, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, the staining of linen by your urine and all unpleasant and dangerous effects on the system produced by the use of whiskey, wine or beer. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is sold at all drug stores at $1 for a large bottle; six bottles for $5.

Stomach Troubles Cured

TO STAY CURED BY

SEMIT TABLETS

BELLEVUE HOSPITAL REMEDY

For Men, Women and Children

The tried and true cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia. The best spring medicine.

HERE IS THE EVIDENCE.

Semit Chemical Co.—Gentlemen: It affords me great pleasure to tell you of the benefit I have derived from Semit. I have been a sufferer for over two years with stomach trouble or dyspepsia. After eating a hearty dinner I would suffer sometimes for hours with a burning sensation in my stomach (sometimes called heartburn), a belching of wind, and sometimes water-brash, which if not relieved would in the course of a few weeks terminate in a stomach cough. I would then take a cathartic and remove the difficulty for a short time; or until my stomach was again overcharged with acid, when the same distressing symptoms would return. A few weeks ago I was induced by my druggist to try Semit Tablets; and now after taking six bottles, I feel none of those distressing symptoms, my liver seems to be in a perfect state of health, and I can truthfully say that I owe it all to that valuable remedy, Semit Tablets. Yours respectfully,

W. D. KNAPP.

AN ANALOGY.

Two gentlemen of refinement and culture are disputing over Annapolis, and making free with the good name of that city. The indications are that one or both of them desire the fate that the people of Providence would bring upon Newport if the opportunity were but afforded. The Rhode Islanders would go even farther, so far as the state capital is concerned, as it is well understood that it is one of the highest ambitions of that city to open its new State House, with Newport shorn of its capital honors.

Not many people in this section have knowledge of the fact that Annapolis long ago was greater than Baltimore and the headquarters of social distinction. The population just before the Revolution, says one of our authorities, was about 20,000, and it is at present in the neighborhood of 5,000. Instead of the resident population being engaged in large enterprises, the business of the city, he says, is now chiefly "canning oysters," a sad decline indeed from the distinction won before the Revolution. Newport has had a somewhat similar experience, but fortunately it is recovering its glory and adding to it, being now much more populous than ever before, and celebrated in many ways. One of these correspondents maintains that Annapolis today is gay and brilliant as in the times when it was the winter home of the planters and lawyers whose wealth built and supported it, and intimates that, though on a smaller scale, it retains the same general character as aforetime.

Had the proposed new constitution been adopted, which was recently submitted to the people, Newport would have lost much of its early distinction; and though not settling down to the level of Annapolis, its greatness would have been but a memory so far as its civic life was involved. Fortunately, on the second trial Newport itself awoke to the dangers of the situation, and insists and will always insist, we trust, upon retaining such capital honors as are conferred in the inauguration of each successive governor, and the induction into office of the several heads of departments. So much as this ought never to be given up, and whether there be any legislation at the new session or otherwise, on questions to be determined from time to time, she must not lose the distinction of being one of the state capitals, even though Providence has a $1,000,000 State House.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON SPEAKS.

Ex-President Harrison has kept remarkably quiet during the exciting scenes of his retirement, as well became him under the circumstances. To take sides in party-ship would not have been becoming, and while not shunning responsibilities he has held himself aloof from the controversy that has been raging over imperialism, so called, until some of our politicians who are opposed to the policy of the administration had been led to count him as one of themselves.

General Harrison is in Europe now, and spent the Fourth of July in Paris, where he was one of the speakers in the observance of the day, and unequivocally declared himself as to the responsibilities under which his country labors. He is reported as saying: "We have incurred responsibilities there (in Cuba) and in the Philippines, and we shall not fail to discharge them at any cost. It is too late to debate the question whether it were wiser to carry out in the Philippines a purely naval campaign or the question whether destiny or our own choice involved us there. We have assumed responsibilities toward a peaceful people there. Toward Spain and toward the world. We must establish order as a preliminary to the consideration of any question as to the ultimate destiny and disposition of the archipelago."

The case has been often stated and is entirely clear. As is said by General Harrison, to have yielded the Philippines back to Spain would have been to perpetuate the evil conditions which existed under Spanish misrule, similar to those which demanded our interference with Cuba. To have driven Spain from her sovereignty and left the Islanders to work out their own destiny would have been to have invited either immediate or long continued anarchy there, in consequence of tribal dissensions or a scramble among the powers for possession, perhaps precipitating a world-wide war. In either case we should have been instrumental in bringing unutterable woes on the inhabitants.

The only possible course left open to this country was to hold what we possessed until conditions were such that it would be best for the interests of the people themselves to dispossess ourselves of the responsibility. This we have tried to do, and are still trying to do, with hope of ultimate success, not laying our burdens down until our duty has been done. To pursue the opposite course would be cowardly, and altogether unbecoming a great and free people. Liberty has its responsibilities as well as kings and queens and empires.

TRUSTING THE NEWSPAPERS.

According to the New York Tribune, the State Department is relying on the press reports for the details of The Hague conference. Consequently it is not in possession of any official statement of the mediation and arbitration plan which is the prominent measure now before the conference. Accepting the press reports as accurate, it may be said that the project is eminently satisfactory to this government, for it is pointed out that the arbitration scheme is nothing more than an elaboration of the simple American proposition with which the delegates were charged before they left the United States. It is true that the pending proposition is credited to Sir Julian Pauncefote, but that was because he had skillfully and with great ability elaborated the details of the American principle to meet the objections expected to be interposed by the European delegates.

If it is true that the conference is to take a long recess to enable the several governments to review its work, it will be well, as the questions considered are so diverse and important that no snap judgment should be attempted.

The Fall River Globe calls attention to the fact that an official board of army officers has been convened at Washington to consider and recommend the best means for increasing the efficiency of the army, and says: "If they neglect to advise the immediate firing of Alger from the War Department as one important means to the desired end, they will lay themselves open to the charge of failing to have what the Dodge commission, in referring to Alger's failures during the Spanish war, characterized as 'a comprehensive grasp of the situation.'"

It turns out that the loss of American line steamship Paris was through a blunder on the part of Captain Watkins, who manfully confesses his fault and takes the responsibility upon himself. He admits that the ship was 18 miles nearer the English coast than he reckoned or intended, and that the accident was the result. Captain Watkins has had a good reputation as a sailor, and it is suggested that the error grew out of an easy confidence, which the captain's long and very successful experience had inspired.

The appointment of Captain A. A. Barker of this city as an officer in the army of the Philippines will be highly approved in this community. He has long been known as an ardent lover and close student of military tactics, and his experience in the South during the Spanish war strengthens the impression that he will be the right man in the right place. There are probably several others who will go from this city in his company, if they can get a chance.

General Otis and his associates find it very uncomfortable in their present quarters, on account of the heat, and orders have been issued to build an ice plant at an expense of half a million dollars. But unfortunately this cannot be erected in time to meet present emergencies, and the time limit is fixed, "within nine months." That certainly seems to be a long time to wait.

The Springfield Union says: "Many of the summer residents of Lenox have left for the seashore, but why anyone should leave Lenox at any time during the summer for any other place in the wide world is hard to comprehend." The "summer residents" of Lenox being Judges, Newport is just the place for them in hot weather.

Ex-Senator M. C. Butler of South Carolina is out in a statement to the effect that the blacks and whites cannot live together in peace and harmony so long as the inferior race possesses equal civil rights with the superior, and the Savannah News indorses the conclusion that the negro must emigrate or give up some of his civil and political privileges.

The business growth of New York city is shown by the fact that, while it has increased 66 per cent in population, its postoffice revenues have been enlarged to the extent of 150 per cent. In the meantime there have been several reductions in postal rates.

Former Senator John J. Ingalls never said a truer thing in his life than this: "The man or the party advocating a policy of relinquishment and submission will go into history with the Hartford convention and the Copperheads of the Rebellion."

Governor Roosevelt is taking an interest in the combination against Tammany between the regular Republicans and the Independents, and is said to be giving it all the legitimate encouragement within his power.

The New Bedford Standard says: "All those men who are trying to tell the people of this country that the Declaration of Independence means nothing will have a hard time in trying to take it back by and by."

Mr. Nathan Straus, who is doing many handsome things in these days, has provided for a free distribution of ice water in the parks of New York during the hot season.

Ex-Senator John Sherman is reported somewhat critically ill once more. It will be unwelcome news to the country.

It is said that Secretary Alger's opinions and wishes are very largely ignored in the President's appointments to the army of the Philippines, and that he will be likely to take the hint that his services are no longer wanted.

The trouble over the Jews' Synagogue appears to be happily settled, and it is to be hoped that all the contestants will gracefully submit to what now seems to be the inevitable.

NEW JERSEY'S QUEER ORCHARD.

Perhaps the oddest looking farm in New Jersey is situated at the southern end of East Orange. Scores of New Yorkers pass on bicycles every week within two blocks of it, little dreaming how close they are to fairyland. For more than 20 years Luke Garrison has been cultivating an orchard of grafted trees, remarkable for unique and grotesque effects. The road in front of the house is lined with trees queerly branched, and as the visitor enters the yard he passes under a wonderfully grafted arch of magnificent elms. The front yard is filled with curiosities in the shape of trees.

It is the large orchard that mostly calls for attention. Great care and patience, combined with ingenuity, have enabled Mr. Garrison to serve on a single stem a collection of orchard products that has made many a connoisseur envious. It is almost impossible to find a tree that does not bear more than one variety of fruit. On one side is a row of trees, each of which bears several different kinds of apples, while on the other you can see a dozen labels on a small pear tree. One tree has several varieties of crabapples, and there are many small trees which bear oranges and lemons, both fruits growing from one stalk, with the branches curiously interwoven.

A specimen of Mr. Garrison's art is a tree bearing the following apples: Golden pippins, dairy chesture, sour harvest, white Gennesser, Van Duyne, red astrakhan, romuty pippins, vicinals and drink, rustics, early and late greenings, peach apples, crabapples, lady apples, black apples and many others, each brand labeled for the visitor's information. This tree is about 20 years old. There is a pear tree which bears Bartletts, Greeleys, Seckels, Lawrence and buery deals. A peculiar pear found in the orchard is the Idaho. It is large and flat, without any core or seed, and excels the Bartlett in flavor. Probably the most wonderful tree in the orchard is one which bears no fewer than 16 varieties of fruit, including plums, apples, pears, peaches, mulberries, quinces, etc. The quince is the most difficult to graft. Such freaks as American, Italian and Japanese chestnuts growing on one tree are regarded by Mr. Garrison as easy to accomplish. He also has different kinds of peaches growing on a small shoot.

Some years ago Mr. Garrison was the recipient of a package from somewhere up New York state containing a twig which would, it was declared, produce an apple half of which would be sour and half sweet. Mr. Garrison planted it and it grew. But the apples were sour all through. Mr. Garrison tried in every way to produce the real article, but was finally compelled to admit that he had been made the victim of a joke.—[New York Sun.

A BRIGHT PROSPECT.

The croaker is always with us. Just now he is doling out a new complaint. He is spoken of as "a man who is much interested in building and loan associations." Then the report goes on to say: "He thought the beginning of the end was approaching. He thought these local companies had done much good, but now, with money plentiful, the great necessity for their existence had about ended. Now, he said, it took 13 years for new stock to mature, and so it amounted to little more than a safe investment, but without much chance for any profit. He was strongly in favor of the local companies, but thought that their days of great usefulness had nearly passed. Should hard times come again to stay any length of time and money become scarce he thought the business of the local companies would again boom." This is a man who has not yet grasped the fundamental idea of the building and loan association. Primarily it is a money saving institution. It is only incidentally that it makes money for its stockholders. Again, it is a co-operative institution. Never before was the idea of co-operation so prominent and popular as just now. On every hand we hear talk of social federation, co-operative industry, municipal and state ownership, the initiative and referendum in legislation, and so on. The building and loan association stands forth as the most conspicuously successful co-operative institution known to history. It has built more homes and made more good citizens and patriots than any other agency. And this man thinks the end is coming. It is only the beginning he has seen. The future is brilliant with promise.—[American Building Association News.

A REMARKABLE GEYSER IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

The people of southern California have recently been favored with one of the most extraordinary exhibitions of natural phenomenon on record, one which has even astonished beyond measurement all classes of a community familiar already with instances of what nature can accomplish when it sets out to do something out of the common.

Southern Californians are so used to shocks of earthquakes, incipient volcanoes, or threatening tidal waves, that it takes something extremely eruptive to disturb their ordinary composure, but the successful effort of a rural rancher in his search for water with which to irrigate his fields, perched with a long drought, has turned the gaze of the whole state toward the little town of Whittier, a hamlet located in the neighborhood of Los Angeles.

Some weeks ago a farmer named Myers, living at Santa Fe Springs, began sinking an artesian well. Others in the neighborhood had successfully tapped a subterranean flow at depths of from 300 to 400 feet and Mr. Myers hoped for a successful issue to his enterprise. By slow stages the drills descended until a depth of 500 feet was attained. This was Sunday, May 14. A drill 200 pounds in weight was employed, and the prospect of tapping a good flow of water was becoming more and more encouraging. A 10-inch pipe had been sunk some distance and the usual preparations made for controlling the flow when it did make its expected appearance.

The heavy drill was working with its usual monotonous regularity when, after one deep plunge, a loud roaring sound was heard coming from the well, accompanied by jets of muddy water and the outbursts of heavy stones. Soon after, the drill itself made its appearance, followed by a grand column of water which forced itself higher and higher until the top reached an elevation of 500 feet. The flow was accompanied by vast quantities of gas smelling strongly of sulphur and igniting when fire was applied, burning with a strong blue flame. Oil in considerable quantities was mixed with the flow. The stones were thrown to an equal height with the water, and the exhibition of tremendous force was unparalleled to the last degree. No geyser of the Yellowstone ever displayed such activity. The column of muddy water was like a great pillar extending almost to the clouds, and falling back to earth again in graceful festoons. The force exerted was equal to a thousand powerful engines. For two weeks this phenomenon was active, though some diminution of the force exerted then began to be apparent.

WORK OF THE FISH COMMISSION.

The last year was the most successful in the whole history of the fish commission. A great part of the work has been in the collection and distribution of the eggs and fry of commercial food fish. Taking shad for instance, by the systematic collection of eggs, the distribution of shad fry, the last annual catch was 13,000,000, or an increase of 8,000,000 since 1885. At the same time the cost of shad has been decreased to the consumer more than 30 per cent. The value of the catch this year is estimated at more than $800,000. This result has been obtained by the efforts of the fish commission at an expenditure of only $12,000. The work of the California stations this year has been chiefly confined to the propagation of the commercial salmon and to two varieties of the trout. Over 40,000,000 eggs have been distributed from these stations. From the five Oregon stations on the Columbia river, 20,000,000 fry have been planted in the Pacific coast streams. In the Rocky mountain region various varieties of the trout were propagated; 60,000,000 fry being distributed. In the middle section of the United States trout, black bass and crappie were distributed in large numbers. From the stations on the Great Lakes where the white fish, lake trout, perch, etc., are collected, no less than 750,000,000 eggs of all kinds were taken and 500,000,000 fry propagated. At the shad stations on the Eastern coast 300,000,000 shad eggs were collected and 230,000,000 fry planted. In Massachusetts there are two of the largest American fish culture stations in the world; here over 200,000,000 cod eggs were collected, and from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 fry distributed; over 100,000,000 lobster eggs have been taken, and it is expected that 500,000,000 will be taken before the close of the season.—[Scientific American.

WASHINGTON, July 11, 8 A. M.—For New England—Threatening tonight, with showers in north portions; threatening Wednesday; fresh southwesterly winds.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, July 11, 8 A. M.—For Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight; probably continued fair Wednesday; southwest winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Within the past 24 hours there have been showers in various parts of the lake regions, and rain in the east Gulf states. With these few exceptions the weather of the country has continued fair and mostly clear at the morning observation here. The high pressure is moving off the middle Atlantic coast. This condition has given rise to a decided increase in temperature in eastern sections, and prospects are favorable for continued warm weather.

DEATHS IN JUNE.

Number Below the Averages for Recent Years.

Twenty-five deaths were reported in Newport during the month of June, a number below the monthly average in the last three years and considerably below the yearly average of these years. The number of deaths in June for these years was: In 1896, 27; in 1897, 22; in 1898, 33. This year's record for the month is equivalent to an annual rate of 13.05 in each thousand inhabitants, the population of the city being estimated at 21,500.

The deaths were from 20 different causes, three each from pneumonia and senile decay or asthenia, two each from cerebral hemorrhage, and acute nephritis, and one each from cerebral apoplexy, acute appendicilis, acute bronchitis, Bright's disease, cancer of face, chronic cystitis, epilepsy, inanition, marasmus, chronic nephritis, broncho pneumonia, pulmonalis phthisis, pulmonalis tuberculosis, suffocation and accidental gun shot wound.

Of the decedents 16 were males and 9 females; 21 were whites and 4 colored; 9 were single, 13 married and 3 widowed. The ages were as follows: Under one month, 2; one month and under one year, 2; twenty years and under forty, 4; forty years and under sixty, 5; sixty and under eighty, 11; over eighty, 1. The oldest was 81 years, 3 months and 23 days, and the average age was 47 years, 3 months and 6 days.

Eight of the decedents were born in Newport; three in other parts of Rhode Island, one in another part of the United States, 11 in other countries, and the native place of two was not given in the death returns.

The deaths occurred as follows: In the First ward, 3; Second, 8; Third, 2; Fourth, 4; Fifth 4; Newport Hospital, 4. Seven bodies were brought to Newport for interment. The interments were as follows: In the Island cemetery, 2; St. Mary's, 2; City, 2; Braman, 1; Common or Old cemetery, 9; removed from the city, 9.

Three cases of scarlet fever and one of typhoid fever were the only contagious diseases reported during the month.

THE LATE CAPTAIN GARDNER.

Notices have been posted at the Old Colony repair shop, and at all other shops in the marine district of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, that all shops will be closed tomorrow in respect to the late General Superintendent Stephen A. Gardner, whose funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, from his late residence on Bulkeley Square, New London. It is the desire of the family to have the funeral as quiet as possible and the interment will be private.

When Mr. Gardner was stricken, he was sitting in a parlor car on the 5 p. m. train from New York, talking with Mr. George Peirce and apparently in his usual health. Suddenly Mr. Peirce noticed a strange expression in Mr. Gardner's face, who said: "I'm dying," and sank back in his chair. The conductor and porter were at once summoned by Mr. Peirce, and in a minute three physicians who were on the train were beside the stricken man. They united in saying that he was beyond medical aid, unconscious and not suffering. Word was telegraphed to Stamford, where was the nearest hospital, and there Mr. Gardner died without regaining consciousness.

The deceased leaves a widow and a family of eight children, the youngest about 16 years of age. He was very popular among the officials and the men of the various lines of which he had charge; was a great worker, and had already done a great deal toward putting all the floating stock in his department in good condition. Wishing to see all the steamers kept up to the high standard of the Fall River line, and the boats run on the same popular plan, thus giving each of the several lines its own share of travel, he had already done much to accomplish this very desirable end, and his successor will find his work very much lighter because of the thorough organization effected by Captain Gardner.

SENTENCED FOR STEALING.

For some time there has been stealing going on at the store of Kaull & Anthony, such articles as cigars, eggs, ham, bay rum, witch hazel and cosmetics being taken. This was traced to a young man of 16 years, named John M. Schoentzler, who disposed of them to Michele Decotis. This morning John pleaded guilty to the larceny, and was sentenced to the Reform School during his minority. The authorities also took the part that Decotis performed in this transaction into consideration, and prosecuted him for receiving stolen goods, and the court sentenced him to 60 days in the Providence county jail, with costs. Both were committed.

NEWPORT ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Last evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church there was a small gathering of those interested in the work of the Anti-Saloon League, nearly all the evangelical churches being represented. Rev. Norman Plass, secretary of the Rhode Island branch, made an address, reviewing the work of the organization elsewhere, and in this state during the last few months. It was decided that the executive body of the local league should consist of five members, to assume charge upon acceptance of their appointment by a committee, which was named at the meeting.

MR. MORGAN'S YACHTING INTERESTS.

Thirty-footer Puck, Mr. E. D. Morgan, arrived last night from Bristol and anchored near the big schooner yacht Alcaea, which Mr. Morgan has chartered for the season and which also arrived here yesterday, in charge of Captain Harry Craven. Mr. Morgan has not appeared in a big sailing vessel since he sold the Constellation, and the fact that he this year has a sailing rather than a steam craft makes it appear that he will again be found taking an active interest in sailing yachts. Of late years his attention has been directed chiefly to the 30-footers, and even then he did not take out the Puck so often as the other owners did their craft, feeling evidently that he was entitled to a vacation after many years of active service in the yachting world.

No member of the New York Yacht Club has done more toward building up the American sailing yacht to its present state of perfection. It is to him that the various stages of boats that led up to the Vigilant, the Defender, and finally the Columbia, are largely due, he having been the pioneer in the various classes until the Herreshoffs were satisfied that they had the lines of the coming yacht. He was also prominent in the building of the only sporting class, the 30-footers.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Hothouse peaches are in the market.

—Nearly all the boxes for the Horse Show have been sold.

—Lighter Agnes is carrying freight from Providence to this city.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berger of New York are here for the summer.

—Miss Margaret O'Donnell of Boston is here for the season, as guest of Miss Mae O'Donnell.

—The members of the Second Baptist Sunday school are enjoying their annual picnic at Wickford today.

—Mr. James B. Comstock will represent St. John's Mutual Beneficial Association at the funeral of Captain S. A. Gardiner.

—The Casino governors have taken no action regarding a subscription ball, but the general impression is that it will be omitted.

—Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt will sail on a trip around the world July 20, accompanied by his college classmates, Messrs. Davies and Whitehouse.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Burnham, Miss Burnham, Commander Robert Jasper, U. S. N., and E. H. Campbell, U. S. N., are registered at the Casino.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Murray Forbes, who have been guests of Mrs. Forbes's father, Mr. John N. A. Griswold, have gone to Fisher's island, where they have a cottage.

—The proceeds of the lecture to be given by Mr. T. B. Pandian of Madras, India, in Trinity Guild hall Tuesday evening next, are to go toward his work among the pariahs in India.

—Arrivals at the Perry House include W. T. Sanford, F. P. Payton, Charles W. Coleman, R. Luckey, New York; Charles F. Bostwick, Boston; W. B. Swan, E. L. Risley, Springfield.

—A clerk from the adjutant general's office visited the Artillery armory this morning with the medals provided by the state for the soldiers and sailors from Rhode Island who served in the volunteer or regular army or navy in the recent war. Up to noon he had disposed of 16 medals.

—Among recent arrivals at The New Cliffs are Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Slater of Webster, Mass., George P. Taylor of Burnside, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Tighe of St. Paul, Minn., Henry Witz of Paris, C. L. Willing, W. F. Gibson and Y. Thompson of Savannah, Ga., James Trumble of Philadelphia and Thomas F. Cuttley of London.

—Mrs. E. H. G. Slater is having opened a new road in continuation of Cliff avenue, leading to her new residence on the Cliffs and connecting with a road laid out last year east from Annandale road. The new street is being built in a very substantial manner, of macadam, and will make a pleasant connection between Annandale road and Bath road.

—Forty-two barrels of potatoes were shipped from here to Boston yesterday, the first of the season. It is probable that shipments were also made from stations on the island, as cars were sent there to be filled. Island potatoes have been sold in town for several days, but if the price holds high in Boston the supply in the local market will be rather small.

—Commodore Banigan of the Rhode Island Yacht Club has purchased steam yacht Llewellyn, a 23-knotter, and she has been made the flagship of the fleet. The boat has a steel hull, is 143 feet over all, 118 feet on the water, is 16 feet broad and draws 7 feet. Commodore Banigan will register his new boat in the New York, Rhode Island and Bristol Yacht Clubs, being a member of all three organizations.

—The Miantuck Golf Club will have a handicap mixed foursomes tournament tomorrow afternoon. This will be the second set event in the golf line at the club grounds, and is expected to develop some play that may eventually lead to the national amateur tournament. At any rate, the members have been practicing steadily and better play than has heretofore been shown is expected. Some of the members have been supplied with convenient little score books and pencils, and scores may in time get into print.

—Now the men on the Texas want to race the Old Colony crew a distance of three miles, one and a half and return, for a purse of five or ten dollars an oar. Coxswain Alger has notified the Texas crew that the Old Colony will be ready to meet them at any time. The crew has a five-mile straightaway race on with the New Yorks, and it is a question if the Texas race can well be rowed before that, as the New Yorks challenged first. The proposition to change boats has been rejected by the Old Colony crew. They say they paid to have the present racing boat built, and having done so see no reason why they should give her to another crew to race against them.

—S. H. Whitwell of Boston and others have sold to William G. Peckham of New York, for $4,324.95, two parcels of land on Whitwell avenue. The first is bounded southeast, 407 feet, on Whitwell avenue; southwest, 100 feet, on Robinson street; northwest, 111 feet, and southwest, 50 feet, on land of Bullock; northwest, 350 feet, on land of Mary E. Brownell and William Findlay, and northeast, 150 feet, on land of Todd. The second piece is bounded northeast, 150 feet, on Robinson street; southeast, 143 feet, on Whitwell avenue; southwest, 150 feet, on East Kay street, and northwest, 154 feet, on land of Paul Massey and Kate H. Dunn.

BOUNDLESS POSSIBILITIES.

Congressmen Much Impressed by Their Visit to Alaska.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 11.—Steamer Queen has arrived here with 350 passengers, excursionists, returning miners from Dawson, some disappointed prospectors from Atlin, and gold variously estimated at $500,000 to $1,000,000. The captain is authority for the latter amount, the passengers placing the treasure at almost any sum between the two figures given. Among the wealthiest miners from Dawson is John Wilkinson of San Francisco, who brings 200 pounds of gold dust.

Among the passengers are Hon. S. E. Payne, son and daughter; Congressman and Mrs. Dalzell, Congressman and Mrs. Hull, Congressman and Mrs. Steele and Congressman John P. Heatwole, who have made the round trip. Congressman Hull says every man in both Houses should make a trip to Alaska, the boundless possibilities of which much impressed him. The party are enthusiastic about their reception all along the line.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL WRECK.

Sufferings of a Yukon Adventurer Who Has Returned to Die.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11.—M. Fleming of Philadelphia, who arrived here last night from Fort Wrangle, Alaska, on steamer Rosalina, is a mute witness of the suffering of the prospectors who rushed to the Yukon gold fields over the Edmonton route. Mr. Fleming presents a sad sight, being badly bloated with dropsy. He has gone through great physical and mental suffering, and severe attacks of fever, scurvy, pneumonia and dropsy have left him in a critical condition both physically and mentally. After all his sufferings in the north he has returned to civilization to die, at a late hour last night being unable to leave the steamer. His mental condition is such that he cannot tell a connected story of his experiences.

From his rambling sentences it is learned that in February, 1898, he started for Dawson from Calgary, with a party of 14, which was made up at Calgary. The party had 80 horses and was captained by John Mason, an old Californian, whom Fleming formerly knew in Colorado. Mason was drowned in the Nelson river. A Bulgarian named Walley was accidentally shot and killed by a Frenchman at Hell Gate on the lower Liard river. Three of the party died at Dames Lake, of scurvy. Fleming could not recall their names, neither could he give the names of any of the party. The surviving members cut a trail through the underbrush. For four months they lived on short rations. Nearly all their horses died and much of their equipment was lost.

RHODE ISLAND DENTAL SOCIETY.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Rhode Island Dental Society was held this noon at The New Cliffs, with the largest attendance of members for many years. The routine business was transacted, the following officers being elected:

President—V. J. Baggott, Providence.
Vice President—G. H. Ames, Providence.
Secretary—Clarence A. Carr, Newport.
Treasurer—Henry W. Gillett, Newport.
Librarian—D. F. Keefe, Providence.
Executive Committee—R. L. Davis, Woonsocket; W. R. Howard, Newport; J. A. Lynch, Providence.

A number of preparations and inventions of special interest to dentists were exhibited at the meeting.

At 1 o'clock the members and guests of the society, 26 in all, sat down to a dinner in the café, a special menu having been prepared by Mr. Roberts. During the dinner Dr. Edward F. Conklin of New York read a paper on "Crown and Bridge Work," a topic of special interest to the members of the society.

THE DELANEY FUND.

Mr. Louis Shanteler, treasurer of the fund for Mrs. Michael Delaney, reports the following subscriptions:

James A. Eddy,	$2.00
Julius Engel,	2.00
J. R. Drexel,	25.00
H. F. Rooney,	5.00
J. T. Allan,	2.00

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NEWPORT HOSPITAL.

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Newport Hospital was held this noon at the hospital, when the usual reports were received. The annual election resulted in some changes. Colonel John Hare Powel, who has been intimately connected with the hospital work for years, positively declined re-election as a trustee. Mr. T. G. Brown also declined to again stand as secretary, a place he has held several years, and for which he was renominated. He was elected a trustee to succeed Mr. Powel. Major Gibbs resigned as trustee, and was succeeded by Mr. George Henry Warren.

The former medical staff was re-elected, and Medical Inspector C. A. Seigfried, U. S. N., was added thereto as consulting physician. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—T. K. Gibbs.
Treasurer—J. F. Burdick.
Secretary—W. H. Hammett.
Trustees, for three years—Charles E. Hammett, Jr., William G. Stevens, Thomas G. Brown.
Trustee for one year—George Henry Warren.

SECRETARY ALLEN SEES GOOD TORPEDO WORK.

Yesterday afternoon, after having carefully inspected the various departments at the Torpedo Station, Hon. C. H. Allen, assistant secretary of the navy, was given an exhibition of torpedo work that greatly pleased him. He was taken out on the Dupont by Commander McLean, and the Morris, Gwin and Mackenzie followed to Coddington cove, where the three smaller boats went through various evolutions, all at good speed. Each boat fired two Whitehead torpedoes at a target. The shooting of the little Gwin, Lieutenant Jackson in command, was especially fine. The starboard torpedo was fired, and then the little craft was turned and the port torpedo fired so quickly that both torpedoes, speeding on to the target, true as a dile, paralled with each other, appeared to be abreast, so nearly were they fired together. It was very prettily done and drew applause not only from the secretary but from the officers and men of the Station, who have seen many clever pieces of work.

After the torpedo firing the Dupont took Mr. Allen to the Herreshoff works at Bristol, which he inspected, returning late in the afternoon. The Dupont is said to have come down the bay at a 20-knot speed, or faster than her trial record. The whole performance, the speed and manoeuvring of the boats, the torpedo shooting and the run of the Dupont, were gratifying to Mr. Allen, who has taken a great interest in torpedo work. This fact is shown by the increased number of officers and men under instruction at the Torpedo Station. The work of yesterday afternoon must have convinced Mr. Allen that Commander McLean and his assistants at the Station are doing just what he would have them do, giving the junior officers and seamen gunners practical experience in the handling of torpedoes and torpedo boats.

The Dolphin sailed for Boston this morning.

MISS HAVEMEYER'S WEDDING.

Mrs. Theodore A. Havemeyer announced yesterday that the marriage of her daughter, Miss Dora Havemeyer, to Lieutenant Commander Cameron McR. Winslow, U. S. N., will take place at Friedheim, the Newport residence of the Havemeyers, late in the autumn. Mrs. Havemeyer said that as her family was in mourning the wedding will be a very quiet affair. As Mrs. Havemeyer and her daughter are regular attendants at St. Mary's parish, Rev. Father Meenan will doubtless officiate.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Commander Washburn Maynard arrived today to visit his family.

Mr. Edwin Mallingkrodt and family of St. Louis, with friends, are spending the day at Narragansett Pier.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher of Boston are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hills on Walcott avenue.

Mr. H. S. Heaton of Philadelphia has arrived for the season. He is very much attached to Jamestown as a summer resort and has been a constant visitor for many years.

Messrs. Kern Dodge, Charles Day and John Nazel have arrived from Philadelphia on launch Fayelle, leaving on Friday last and having rather rough weather on the Sound Sunday. Mr. Dodge played center on the Germantown Academy team for the past two seasons, which won the inter-academic championship both years. Last year he ran the Fayelle, a 33-foot-long Daimler launch, nearly 4,000 miles without a mishap of any kind. Mr. Dodge's parents occupy the cottage of Mr. E. G. Knowles this season. His grandmother, Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor of the St. Nicholas, is expected to visit them later in the season.

The store of Mr. Charles Frasch presents a very attractive appearance at all times, but especially when the electric lights are turned on in the evening. The temperature during the evening is at least 20 degrees cooler than when the store was lighted by oil.

A. W. Luther has rented for P. H. Horgan his cottage No. 1, to John C. Wallace of Philadelphia for the season.

The Jamestown Water and Light Company have sunk a large well on the property recently purchased on the Watson farm, and is finding a good supply of water, being obliged to build a dike to control it.

Controversy Over the Jewish Synagogue Happily Settled.

The "court of inquiry of forcible entry and detention," whose like, it is said, has not been seen here since 1866, and which seemed to be an unfamiliar form of proceeding to Judge Douglas, who is certainly no novice in law matters, resumed its sessions soon after 2 o'clock yesterday. There would have been valuable material for study in the great difference in faces of the considerable number of Jews present. City Solicitor Brown and some court officials also listened to the proceedings. A larger spirit, that made for peace and generous concession, seemed to have come with several Jewish gentlemen from New York, and some time before the day closed this spirit bore gratifying fruit.

The judge called the jury and Mr. Schreier's cross-examination was resumed. He admitted that he was present and knew of the City Council's adverse action. He was asked to produce the records of the congregation, but this seemed not yet in order and the judge said he had no power to compel it.

In redirect, he said his congregation occupied the synagogue under permission of the owners. Mr. Tillinghast asked about the appointment of the new rabbi by the congregation in New York. This was objected to, as this New York congregation was not shown to be the alleged owners. The court said this must be shown or evidence as to their action was of no effect.

Mr. Schreier was asked again about his reception by the "mob" at the synagogue, and said they came towards him with their tools as if they wanted to strike him and the howling was like the Wild West show. They made a rush at him. He named some half dozen, and one man being in court at once made a protest against being so named. There was a general "hush" from the audience, but the informal proceedings did not boast any officer to keep order. The sheriff was, however, sent for, and had a talk with the man, who seemed to be disposed to be orderly, and the incident appeared to be closed. Mr. Schreier was asked about Sullivan Schwarz being present. To establish identity the judge asked Mr. Schwarz, if in court, to stand. Three men rose up and seemed to be identified, and afterwards it was said neither was Sullivan Schwarz.

Alfred Schreier was next affirmed. He is son of the preceding witness and corroborated his evidence as to acting as guardian for the New York parties, and as to what was done at the synagogue. After Mr. Levy's men went, Mr. Schreier's locks were put on again, and his two watchmen stayed there. This was the day before the mob came in "like a flock of sheep" from all sides and threats and attempts were made, but no striking done. Witness said his father withdrew from the "mob." He couldn't tell whether or not he liked the Levy's. He is secretary of the congregation.

Since 1897 this congregation and that in New York are "one amalgamated body." Mr. Nolan, who was doing the cross-questioning, inquired about this a little. Witness said there were papers to show it. He didn't know where the papers were. The New York congregation has four trustees to act with the Newport trustees. Witness and his father didn't leave because of threats; they don't get frightened easily. There were eight of their watchmen who had been put outside the grounds by the "mob" before witness arrived. They (the mob) had a watchman whom they left and witness has seen him there since.

Henry Osborne was sworn. He is a colored man, of quiet mien, living on Pond avenue, and was one of Mr. Schreier's watchmen. He was interrupted by a sudden recess, after which the story of the "mob" didn't seem to be of such great importance. The other side didn't get any chance to dispute it, except in private (it is claimed that the array of weapons did not exist in fact and that men said to have been in the mob were far away from the locality), for the leaven of compromise was scoring its victory and the court and jurors took a recess while the keen and able counsel of the two sides got together and wrote out a verdict, in a manner very much resembling that of some young college men translating together a not too difficult Latin lesson. A great many, in fact about everybody, who stayed long enough to see the verdict prepared seemed satisfied and both sides of the case were apparently greatly pleased. It was even suggested to have a service in the synagogue in the evening, and a number were willing to attend. The sheriff had some of the keys in his hands before the folks all got away and all the differences seemed to have been happily ended for an indefinite period.

The court having come to order the jurors received their instructions to sign the verdict, upon which the parties had agreed. They all were to sign it, in this trial; usually the foreman alone signs. The verdict found that the land and synagogue were, on June 8, 1899, in the lawful and rightful possession of L. Napoleon Levy and others (complainants), that defendants forcibly entered and kept complainants out and that complainants ought to have speedy possession. As soon as it could be written (it took a good while to write out the long lists of names on both sides) the sheriff was given an order to put complainants in possession, and those of Mr. Max Levy's side present cheerfully agreed to turn over the keys they had.

The verdict gives all the title complainants could seek in this proceeding, but it does not at all settle the question of who really owns the synagogue. It will not interfere with the continuance of the two congregations in Newport, but the New York parties, who were represented by L. Napoléon Levy, N. Taylor Phillips and Dr. Mendez (son of the late Dr. Mendez of Newport) agreed that there should be a welcome for everybody in the synagogue and that services should be maintained on a plan which appeared to be satisfactory to all. They cheerfully paid the $80.90 which the court declared to be costs that must be paid (jurors and officers' fees) and their own expenses, while the defendants were to pay their own witnesses (at least one summons for witnesses was signed by Clerk Webster of the common pleas division in Providence.) It was said that the Touro Congregation, which no longer disputes the ownership of the synagogue, is entirely satisfied with the arrangements now made. It is understood that the Spanish and Portuguese form of worship will be restored, that Dr. Mendez will conduct services through the summer and that the rabbi recently chosen by the Touro congregation will be duly provided for.

The judge took the papers to prepare his record. No record is required in these proceedings, but he will make one and deposit it with the clerk in this county, where it may some time serve in looking back for a precedent. The judge withdrew after the formal proceedings were completed and others went, a few at a time, after staying to talk as long as they wished—and somehow folks were pretty sociable.

The land of the synagogue is described as 92.46 feet on Touro street, 100.8 on land of Newport Historical Society, 90.65 on Barney street, the fourth side abutting on land of George P. Lawton.

Grain-O Brings Relief

to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit, that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion, effects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Lieutenant E. H. Campbell, U. S. N., is at The Prescott.

—Mr. W. S. Currin, who has been seriously ill, is able to be out.

—Mr. E. Lindgren of New York has arrived at The Anchorage.

—Mrs. Babcock of Stonington, Conn., is visiting Mrs. G. H. Warren, Jr.

—Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs has returned from a visit to New York.

—Colonel Pearson of the Tenth United States infantry is in town.

—Mr. James Wright of New York has been spending a few weeks here.

—Mr. H. McK. Twombly and family of New York arrived at "Vinland" last night.

—Miss C. Ogden Jones gave a musicale and reception at her villa at Ochre Point yesterday afternoon.

—The Sunday school of the Channing Memorial Church will have its annual picnic tomorrow at Wickford.

—Mr. J. W. Beekman and Miss C. A. Beekman of New York are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hude Beekman.

—The late Henry Betts of East Providence was a member of St. John's Mutual Beneficial Association. This organization has recently lost four members by death.

—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Widener of Philadelphia, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carter, left today for Bar Harbor, where they will spend the remainder of the season.

—The late Captain S. A. Gardiner was formerly a member of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, A. F. and A. M., but at the time of his death he was member of the lodge at New London.

—Mr. Royal Phelps Carroll went to Bristol yesterday on sloop yacht Navahoe, visited the Herreshoff works, where the yacht was built, and returned to Newport late in the afternoon.

—Schooner yachts Amorita, W. Gould Brokaw; Winona, T. C. Losier, and Emerald, William Iselin, arrived here last night, from Long Island, not having started in the ocean race from Montauk point.

—The scup have left the Jersey coast and local shippers are now receiving more per barrel than at any time in the past two months, the price in New York for the past few days varying from $5 to $7 per barrel.

—The marriage of Deputy Sheriff Hugh N. Gifford to Miss Bertha L. Williams will take place in the living apartments at the county jail Thursday evening, July 27, Rev. C. F. Beattie, rector of St. John's Church, officiating.

—There is a report that the Industrial Trust Company is negotiating for the purchase of an estate on Thames street. If the present plans are carried out the building on the property will be torn down and a new block erected on the site.

—Lieutenant Commander Cameron McR. Winslow has been selected by Rear Admiral Sampson as his flag lieutenant, to succeed Lieutenant Commander S. A. Staunton, who was recently relieved from that duty to become secretary of the inter-oceanic canal commission.

—Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D. D., rector of Trinity Church, Boston, who is occupying the Blatchford cottage on Greenough place, will officiate at All Saints' Chapel next Sunday. Dr. Donald is the successor of the late Bishop Brooks in the pulpit of Trinity Church, and is an eloquent and forcible preacher.

—Mr. Oskytel Clarke of Jamestown and Mr. Charles Harlow Raymond of Lawrenceville, N. J., are visiting Mr. Perry G. Hill. Mr. Raymond is a graduate of Wesleyan University and was the captain of the football team. He is the owner of sloop Daisy, in which he and Mr. Hill sailed from Westbrook, Conn., to this city.

—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church for the late Dr. Nathanael Greene and were attended by a large number of friends, including local members of the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati, of which the deceased was for 22 years president. The interment was in the Island Cemetery. There were no pall-bearers.

—Mr. Ray S. Barker, who has the contract to sink a well at Dutch Island to supply the garrison there with water, has sunk the well 200 feet and found an abundance of clear water. It was thought the well would have to be sunk much deeper, and there was doubt if then water would be reached, but the amount of water found will supply at least 500 troops. It is possible that another will be sunk for a reserve supply.

ENGLISHMEN NOT COMING.

Visit of Tennis Experts to This Country Abandoned.

It has been definitely learned that the expected team of English lawn tennis experts will not come over this season to play in American tournaments. Up to very recently the tennis authorities on this side of the water who have had the matter in charge believed the foreigners would sail this week, but the last steamer brought word that the trip has been abandoned. The poor showing made this season by Dr. Eaves, who was at the head of the team, and the illness of the younger Doherty, which kept him out of the English championship meeting, are thought to be responsible for the failure of the plan.

In the absence of the foreign visitors, the international invitation tournament, scheduled for the week of August 1, will not be played. In its place the noted old Southampton will be revived. Word has been received that tennis is booming down there, and the courts of the Meadow Club are said to be in even more constant demand than the neighboring golf links. Judge Howland, one of the most promising of the residents of that section and an officer of the Meadow Club, has taken the matter in hand, and, with the help of Larned and one or two other experts, has quietly made all the preliminary arrangements for the tournament. It will be an invitation event and promises to be one of the most important of the year. Sixteen of the leading players have been invited, and they will play off on the regular Bagnall-Wilde "knockout" plan. While it is not positive just which of the players will accept and play, the following are among those invited: Larned, Chace, Wrenn, Howland, Ned, Stevens, Huntington, Campbell, Bond, Whitman, Ware, Foote, Millett, Allen, Miles, Davis and Ward. Huntington will probably play, and both Howland and Chace may also make their reappearance at the meeting, though it is doubtful if Campbell or Foote will accept.

It has been learned that even more of the veterans than at first thought will re-enter the big tournaments this season. Wrenn has written from the West saying that he expects to play at Newport, and Huntington is almost sure. Chace and Foote may play again, while it is also rumored that Hobart may be back from abroad in time for Newport. Ex-Champion Campbell and Huntington, who held the national championship in doubles for two years, talk about playing at Longwood for the Eastern championship, the winners of which will go to Newport to play for the national championship. The old challenge cups for doubles that were held by Campbell and Huntington are still in competition and a third victory this year would give to them permanent possession of the handsome trophies. Ware and Sheldon, the present holders, also have two "legs" each, while Hobart and Hovey have won them twice. Several other teams also have held them.

Against Campbell and Huntington at Longwood, however, will be Davis and Ward, the crack "colt" team from Harvard that came within one stroke of the championship last August, as well as Whitman and George Wrenn, last year's Eastern champions, and other formidable pairs. For the Western championship Bond and Collins and Hackett and Allen, the Yale team, are strong favorites, and one of them will probably be sent to Newport to represent the Western section in doubles.

This week the Canadian championship at Niagara-on-the-Lake will occupy all attention, and Champion Whitman, Fischer, Paret, Little, Grant, Wright and a host of other experts will struggle for the right to challenge Leo Ware, the holder of the Canadian challenge cup.

Next week the New York state championship will be held at Syracuse, and also a big open event for the new challenge cup put up last season, at Magnolia Beach, Mass. Budlong won the trophy, and he will make his début this season in its defense. A big field of cracks is expected to enter in the hunt for his scalp, with a good chance that one of them will get it. After the Magnolia tournament comes the Longwood meeting, and then the players will split up, as there are two meetings, one at Wentworth and the other at Southampton. Only one more week intervenes before the championship at Newport, and this will be taken up by the Maine state championship at Sorrento.—[New York Sun.

FACTS ABOUT TEA.

Green, Black and All Kinds From the Same Bush.

Many years ago it was believed that there were two kinds of tea shrubs, one producing green tea and the other black, and this idea was handed down in cyclopedias and articles on tea by writers, none of whom probably ever saw a tea tree or knew anything of the manufacture of tea.

The fact is, there is only one genus of plant, Camellia Theifera, from which the tea of commerce is produced, though there are many species produced by difference in soil, climate, hybridization and cultivation. All the different kinds of tea—green, black, golden tips, Pekoe, Oolong, Souchong, Bohea, etc.—are made from the same bush. Pure green tea is made by quickly drying the leaves after they are plucked, and black tea is produced from the same kind of leaves by drying them after they have been withered and allowed to ferment or ripen for a short time in a heated room.

Pure green tea can be made by rolling the leaves on a board in the sun or in a bowl or pan over a fire until they are thoroughly dried, and their color would be that of fresh mown dried grass as cut by a lawn mower. Green tea is not such because of its color, but on account of its unripeness, as it has all the astringent, bitter qualities that unripe dried fruit would have.

In making black tea a longer time is required. The leaf is first wilted or withered, and then left for a time in a warm room to ferment. This could be done by throwing the leaves in a pile, but this process would be unequal, as the inner part would be fermented too much and the outer layers none at all, and there would be no uniformity.

The modern scientific method is to wilt the leaves in a machine by means of a slow fire, then to place the wilted leaves in shallow bamboo trays, placed in a room where the heat is from 110 degrees to 130 degrees. By placing the leaves in trays all are equally affected by the heat. During this stage the greatest watchfulness has to be given lest the leaves being under are overfermented, as on this depends the value of black tea, in the same degree as fruit might not be ripe enough or too ripe to suit the taste.

As a good illustration of the difference between pure green and black tea, take clover grass. Any one who has tasted green clover as it is growing in the field knows that it has a bitter, astringent taste, not at all pleasant. Dry this grass quickly, so that its color remains green, and it will have the same unpleasant flavor. Take some of the grass after it has fermented and turned black and dried as hay, and it will have a sweet, agreeable flavor, and one is not surprised that cattle enjoy it. Any farmer will say that to make good clover hay it must sweat in the cock or winrow before it is gathered in. All he may know about it is that his grandfather or father said so. In the sweating or fermentation a chemical change takes place, the starch becomes sugar, and the hay is nutritious and palatable.

For a long time it was supposed that the tree was a native of China, when so little was known in the western world about tea and its manufacture. There is much ignorance still about it, as people frequently ask if the plant is sown every year, if it is mowed with a scythe or harvested with a reaper. The Thea Camellia is a tree sometimes forty feet high, and a foot in diameter, as it is found in the forests of Assam, in India. It is now conceded that here has been its native home, whence the seed or plants were taken to China across the mountains and thence to Japan. In the forest it grows to wood, with few laurel-like, large, tough leaves. For a plantation only young, tender leaves are desired.

The seeds, in appearance like hazelnut, are sown in a nursery. While they are growing the acreage is prepared by frequent digging and terracing, as the best plantations are on the hillsides. Holes are dug four or five feet apart each way, ready for the little trees. When these are about one foot high they are transplanted from the nursery. They are carefully protected and shielded from the sun. They are pruned with a knife or shears, and not allowed to grow more than two and one-half to three feet high. They remained dwarfed trees, the top one mass of small trenches and the stem at the age of 30 years not more than three inches in diameter. During the first two years no leaves are plucked. In the third year perhaps 50 pounds of tea may be gathered from an acre, but when the plantation has arrived at maturity from 500 to 800 pounds may be taken from the same trees.

The season commences in March and lasts until November. During this time there are from 10 to 15 sproutings or "flushes," as the growth of the young twigs is called. From these the young leaves are picked, according to the kind of tea desired. If the finest, the little tips at the top of the twig, only a few hours old, making tea costing from $20 to $160 a pound; then the next leaf below for flowing Pekoe; still further down Pekoe, Oolong, Souchong and down to the long, harder leaf, Bohea. The old leaves are not plucked, as they are withered, and to pluck them would wither the tree. The flowers are never used, though beautiful enough to adorn a bride's hair. When seed is not desired the flowers are plucked from the tree and thrown away.

Since the tea industry has been assumed by Europeans, during the last 30 years in India and Ceylon, inventors have been at work, and various machines have been constructed for every process except that of plucking the leaves. It would be as difficult to pick tea leaves as it would be to gather raspberries with a machine.

This is cleanly done. Each picker has a little basket and plucks each leaf with the thumb and forefinger. The different machines are for withering, rolling, drying, sifting and packing. With them there is scarcely any hand work on the leaves. The European tea houses are models of cleanliness. Bread in the best-furnished bakeries could not be more cleanly than the tea produced on these plantations.

The tea industry in India and Ceylon is almost entirely in the hands of Europeans, most of them well educated and all experienced in their business. They have made as much or more advancement in the making of tea as there has been improvement in the dairy industry in the United States.

In mentioning green tea I used the adjective pure, for there can be pure green tea, though unfit for drinking as bitter green fruit when dried would be for eating. There is scarcely any pure green tea in the market. One reason for this is that among the Chinese each family has its own tea plat and makes up the product which is sold to dealers, who find it necessary to use coloring matter to give the various batches a uniform color and make it fit for a foreign market.

Another reason is that the Chinese, being a frugal people, wasting nothing, after steeping leaves for their own use dry and color the grounds for the American market, for no colored green teas are admitted in the European markets, and but little pure green tea is used there. The Chinese themselves never use colored teas, and it is stated by the best authority that seven-eighths of all the tea exported from China is colored and made in Japan, for if there is no colored Japan tea, why the frequent use of the word uncolored by dealers and users when speaking of Japan tea? No one ever heard of uncolored Indian or Ceylon tea.—[Chicago Tribune.

DANIEL C. FRENCH HONORED.

It is no new thing for foreign rewards to be conferred upon American artists, but the election of Daniel Chester French to membership in the famous Academy of St. Luke's is particularly interesting, as he is the first American to receive this distinction.

The Accademia di San Luca is said to have been founded by St. Luke, and treasures a painting which tradition ascribes to his brush. However that may be, the authenticated history of the guild dates back to A. D. 800. Its home is the Palazzo Colonna, near the Quirinal, in Rome, and the membership is limited to 41, of whom 20 are foreigners. In the selection of these a jealous regard has been always paid to the high standard of excellence worthy of an institution which counts among its past brethren such artists as Michael Angelo and Raphael.

Mr. French was born in New England and entered the Boston School of Fine Arts at eighteen. Subsequently he was for a short time a pupil of J. Q. A. Ward, and later spent three years in Florence, working under the guidance of Thomas Ball and Preston Powers. On his return to America his ability was speedily recognized. His "Angel of Death Staying the Hand of the Sculptor" established his reputation both at home and abroad. It was followed by the "Minute Man" at Concord, the group of "Gallaudet and His First Deaf Mute Pupil," and his John Boyle O'Reilly monument, representing Patriotism, Erin and Poetry. Several commissions were awarded him at the World's Fair, notably the "Statue of the Republic" and the "Quadriga" over the water gate of the peristyle. In the latter Mr. E. C. Potter collaborated with him, as he also did in some others of the groups involving animals. They have recently worked together again upon the equestrian statue of General Grant, recently unveiled at Philadelphia, and are still doing so in the case of the "Washington" which is destined for the city of Paris. Another very important work which is engaging Mr. French's attention is the designing of the bronze doors for the library at Boston, in which city his admirable statue of Rufus Choate has been erected. His work, sometimes strong, always serious, dignified and gracious, has brought him at middle life to a position very near the top among American sculptors. He is, moreover, lovable as a man and a host of friends are glad of the honor paid him. Through him honor has been done to American art, of which his work is so completely representative.—[The Artist.

OCEAN CABLES IN WAR-TIME.

During the late war the Americans cut the cable connecting Manila with Hong Kong, and the French cable in Cuban waters off the port of Caimanera. This was at once denounced, by the French press especially, as unwarranted by the laws of nations, and as being a positive violation of the rules of modern warfare. The charge is absolutely groundless. A belligerent certainly cannot be denied the right to prevent his enemy from communicating with the outside world. The suggestion has been often made that ocean cables should not be interfered with in time of war, but should be neutralized by agreement of the nations. President Buchanan made such a suggestion as early as 1858, when the first Atlantic cable was laid. In his reply to Queen Victoria's message of good-will Mr. Buchanan said: "Will not all nations of Christendom spontaneously unite in the declaration that it (the cable) shall be forever neutral, and that its communications shall be held sacred in passing to their places of destination, even in the midst of hostilities?" But this agreement, which Mr. Buchanan 40 years ago supposed the nations would so spontaneously enter into, does not yet exist.

The war with Spain is the first war, so far as the writer is aware, in which a belligerent has found it necessary to cut an ocean cable. That the cables were likely to be so interfered with appeared probable at the very outbreak of hostilities. Mr. Balfour was questioned on the subject in the British House of Commons as early as April 26, the day after the United States declared war. He replied that he was not prepared to deny that belligerents, on the ground of military exigencies, would be justified in interfering with the cables. A few days later, May 2, Dewey had cut the Manila cable.

The nations have a convention for the protection of submarine cables, which was entered into in Paris in 1884, and ratified and proclaimed in 1885. The United States and Spain are among the signatory powers. That convention, however, simply provides protection for cables in time of peace. In Article 15 it is expressly stated that "It is understood that the stipulations of this convention shall in no wise affect the liberty of action of belligerents." But it is interesting in this connection to recall that in 1869 the United States proposed the neutrality of cables in time of war, and called a conference to meet at Washington. But before the conference could be held the Franco-Prussian war occurred, and the meeting had to be abandoned. The Italian government subsequently sounded the powers, and it was found that it would be impossible to secure their assent to neutralization. In 1881 an attempt was made to lay an Atlantic cable; and at that time France, Italy, Portugal and one or two other states actually entered into an agreement for its protection in war as well as peace. The effort to lay that cable failed; with the failure the treaty lapsed.—[President Henry Wade Rogers, in the Forum.

ROSENTHAL not only recommends the Pianola to lovers of music, but says every professional musician should make a study of it.

The remarkable way in which it played one of his own studies captivated him and he ordered one shipped immediately to Vienna.

Today's Games.

Taunton at Pawtucket, Newport at Portland, Manchester at Brockton.

Portland, 13; Newport, 1.

Portland, Me., July 10.—In the fifth inning today Noblitt lifted the ball over the rightfield fence with the bases full and no one out, and for a while Pitcher Foley lost heart. The fusillade, thus begun, Portland continued until 13 men had been at bat and 10 runs scored. After that both pitchers did good work, and there was no more scoring. Portland played magnificently in the field and the visitors were badly outclassed. Score:

Notes.

The Young Newports defeated the Young Brocktons, 11 to 6, in seven innings.

The Holland Streets defeated the Bath Roads, 11 to 2.

Stroh, who started the season with Newport, was tried at third by Syracuse Saturday and did well.

Todd and News, formerly of Pawtucket, are playing with the Chester, Penn., team, which had not lost a game until the morning of July 4, when Todd started to pitch for them and was hit all over the lot.

The labor unions are after Klobedanz at Worcester, and so are the opposing batsmen.

"Big" George Mahoney and McDougall were yesterday signed as pitchers by Manager Irwin of the Manchester team.

Ul Ladd, the old Fall River favorite, has signed with Allentown.

"Outfielder Gilbert of the Newport club is marked for fast company."—[Boston Globe.

"In every full game in which Corridon has officiated he has held the opposing clubs down to less than eight hits. No twirler in the league is doing any better work than young Corridon. He is a coming twirler and no mistake."—[Pawtucket Times.

McCormack has been away from the team on account of the serious illness of his wife and his young daughter, both of whom, it is feared, will die.

"Foley of Newport is the best pitcher in this league, all things considered. He has elegant command of the ball and above all has a good head for working batters, and never goes up in the air in a pinch."—[Brockton Enterprise.

"William Supple, who began labors on the New England League staff of umpires yesterday, hails from Holliston, and is warmly recommended. He has had plenty of experience in umpiring semi-professional games and ought to be successful. He will umpire at Brockton today and at Newport tomorrow."—[Boston Herald.

CAPTAIN BARKER NOW.

Newporter Commissioned for Service in the Philippines.

Among the appointments announced by President McKinley of officers for the new volunteer regiments to be enlisted for service in the Philippine islands are those of Frank A. Cook, formerly lieutenant colonel of the First Rhode Island volunteers, to be major, and Alvin A. Barker, formerly major of the Rhode Island volunteers, to be captain. Both officers will, it is understood, accept the appointments and be assigned to the Twenty-sixth infantry, to be commanded by Colonel Edmund Rice of Massachusetts.

In the Twenty-sixth infantry will be included volunteers from all the New England states, with the exception of Connecticut, and also such other recruits as may enlist above latitude 40 in New York. The men from these states are being concentrated at Plattsburg, and every day from now on the number there will be steadily increased. It is anticipated that the fact that Rhode Island will probably have several officers in this regiment will tend toward freer enlistment from this state.

A number of the members of Company F, First Rhode Island Volunteers, who live in Newport are reported to be ready to enlist if they can be assigned to Captain Barker's regiment, and it is understood that Captain Barker will find non-commissioned officers' billets for some of them.

At the recruiting office in Providence enlistments for the new infantry began yesterday and two men were successful in passing the examination, a number of others being rejected because of physical disabilities. It is believed that it was not generally known that the recruiting for this regiment had been begun, and it is anticipated that the number of enlistments will daily increase from now on. The recruits will be sent at once to the barracks at Plattsburg, New York.

Alvin A. Barker of this city, who has been appointed captain in the new volunteer infantry, is a native of Middletown, but has spent the greater part of his life in Newport. He was born November 29, 1858, and in 1878 engaged in the grocery, hay and grain business in this city. Having served one year as a member of the common council from the Second ward, he declined a re-election on account of the demands of his private business.

ALVIN A. BARKER.
Commissioned a Captain in the Twenty-Sixth Volunteer Regiment.

He joined the Newport Artillery July 27, 1875, and was elected quartermaster April 25, 1882, and major three years later. In 1888 he was appointed an aide-de-camp, with rank of colonel, on the personal staff of Governor Royal C. Taft and served one year in that position. He was in 1892 elected lieutenant colonel of the Newport Artillery and two years later, April 24, 1894, was promoted to colonel, serving as commanding officer of the company until September, 1898, when he resigned.

When the First Rhode Island regiment of volunteers was organized he was appointed junior major, and upon the resignation of Major J. F. Thetteplace was promoted to senior major. Serving with the regiment during its eleven months' existence, he was held in high regard by the officers and men alike, his battalion being noted for the excellence of its drills and other camp work, and for the soldierly conduct of its men on all occasions. Major Barker was mustered out with the regiment last March. He was recently placed on the retired list of the Rhode Island militia, with rank of colonel.

DR. STORER HONORED.

The Newport Natural History Society held a meeting at the museum on Touro street last evening, for the special purpose of testifying the appreciation of the members for the long and valuable services of their ex-president, Dr. Horatio R. Storer. This object was accomplished by the creation of a new office in the society, that of honorary life president, and a change was made in the by-laws to allow this to be done. The following resolution was offered by Rev. Emery B. Porter, one of the vice presidents of the society, and was seconded by Dr. V. Mott Francis:

"Resolved, that the Newport Natural History Society accepts with sincere regret the decision of Horatio R. Storer, M. D., not to be again proposed as president of this society, in consequence of his impaired health and advancing years; that, in recognition of his invaluable services from the time of the society's inception in 1883 until the present year, and of his official position as its president, held since the year 1890, a position always filled by him with dignity and ability, the society desires to elect him its honorary life president, as the only compliment in its power to perpetuate the society's appreciation of its indebtedness to him. The society trusts it may still have the benefit of his counsel and presence at its meetings for many years to come."

This was unanimously adopted by the votes of all the members present, there being no dissentient voice. In addition to this, the secretary had also received the acquiescence of a large majority of those members who were unable to be present to the creation of this new office and to its conferment upon Dr. Storer.

JEWS CONGRATULATED.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to congratulate the members of the Touro Congregation and Messrs. Levy and Phillips on the peaceful solution of the difficulties which was yesterday effected in the synagogue trouble. It has been a long and bitter fight for what the Hebrew residents at large considered their rights and liberties, and their position was promptly recognized when the proper persons made their appearance. There was an early disposition by both parties to settle the matter, each acknowledging the other to be in a proper position. The terms of settlement are extremely satisfactory, and there is consequently much rejoicing.

Hereafter the synagogue is to be open for the full and free exercise of the Hebrew religion of the Jews of Newport, with no chief dictator present. Services will be conducted under the ancient form and rich and poor will be welcome, all having an opportunity to take part in the services, extreme care being taken that the edifice shall be conducted for church purposes only. A better law-abiding community does not exist anywhere than is the Hebrew element of this city, and in this matter they should receive the congratulations of the community at large for their patriotism and firm stand in the fight for right and justice, and for their good will and desires for peace in making every effort to come to the peaceful and amicable settlement arrived at. CITIZEN.

Newport, July 11, 1899.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. J. H. Harris is here from Brooklyn.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor will spend the summer at "Beechwood."

—Mrs. Frederick Pearson gave a ladies' luncheon today at Ochre Point.

—Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed gave a luncheon at the Golf Club yesterday.

—Mr. Harry Lehr of New York is expected in a few days, to remain during the season.

—Mrs. William Astor, who recently returned from Europe, has arrived at "Beechwood."

—Mr. and Mrs. John Bernstein of New York are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Lawton.

—Mrs. C. H. Baldwin, Mr. E. L. Winthrop and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish gave dinners last night.

—Mr. and Mrs. Christian Carlson and their youngest son, Rudolph, spent yesterday in Providence.

—Mrs. W. G. Weld of Boston and Mr. John C. Bancroft of Melrose have arrived at their cottages for the season.

—Mr. James A. Shedd of Somerville, Mass., is guest of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hammett on School street.

—The Misses Hall, daughters of Lieutenant Commander M. E. Hall, U. S. N., are guests of Mrs. S. R. Colhoun at the Torpedo Station.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton W. Cary of New York are at the Van Dusen Reed cottage, Bellevue avenue, which they have taken for the summer.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sylvester, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Young for two weeks, returned to their home at Melrose, Mass., today.

—Mrs. N. D. W. Clapp and Miss Clapp of New York, who are on their way home from Europe, will come immediately upon their arrival to their cottage on Bellevue avenue.

—Delancy Council, Knights of Columbus, will make an excursion to Newport Sunday, July 30, to celebrate its anniversary and will be entertained by the members of Newport Council.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for Professor Charles W. Shields his cottage on the corner of Ruggles and Lawrence avenues, known as "Nethercliff," to Hon. George Von L. Meyer for the season.

—Mr. John C. Burke, formerly of this city and a graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., will practice law in Newport, having his office in the Daily News building. Mr. Burke was admitted to the Rhode Island bar in 1897.

—Manuel Silva, second class fireman, died at the Naval Station Monday, of typhoid fever. He had been at the Station about two years, coming from New Bedford. He has a brother in Jamestown, who will take charge of the funeral Wednesday afternoon.

—Mrs. I. P. White has rented her house to Mrs. Hoffman of New York. Mrs. White sailed Saturday on the Patricia of the Hamburg-American line, her destination being Nauheim, Germany, where she will take the "kur" under the direction of Professor Anton Schott, and expects to return to Newport in October.

—The corporation of the Channing Memorial Church met last evening to receive the resignation of Rev. George W. Cutter as pastor, to take effect November 1 next. By a vote of 32 to 12 the resignation was not accepted, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Rev. Mr. Cutter and request him to withdraw his resignation and remain with the church.

—At Cedarhurst, Long Island, yesterday, in the first match for the Cedarhurst challenge cup, the Philadelphia team beat Rockaway second, 14½ to 9¼ goals, the victors allowing three goals handicap. Today the teams of the Devon Polo Club and the Country Club of Westchester will meet in the second match for the cups.

—The scene at the wharf upon the arrival of steamer General on her 7 o'clock trip each evening is very animated and many sight-seers go there to see the passengers land. The wharf is usually covered with fine horses and carriages, cabs, hacks and express wagons. An enormous quantity of baggage is landed. Not a few arrive on the last evening trip of the steamer.

—A. O'D. Taylor has sold for Mrs. Walter L. Kane the unoccupied lot of land situated at the corner of Red Cross avenue and Oakwood Terrace, containing 22,576 square feet and bounded on the east by land of Alfredo Del Genovese, on the south by land of Mary H. Drake, on the west by Red Cross avenue, and on the north by Oakwood Terrace, to Charles J. Maurin of Jamestown.

—The Baptist Temple Union of Fall River made an excursion on steamer Favorite to Newport and Narragansett Pier this afternoon. Tomorrow the Thompson Street and Harrison Street churches of Central Falls will come on the Pawtuxet and the Newman Congregational Church of East Providence on the Corsair. Friday the State Street Methodist Episcopal Church of Bristol will make an excursion here on the Rambler.

RATE WAR ON THE SOUND BEGUN.

The expected cut in steamboat fares from New York to Fall River has been made by the Consolidated road managers to meet the low rates of the New Haven Steamboat Company. A reduction from $3.50 to $3 has been ordered on the Fall River line, and to Newport, which puts the line on the same footing as the New Haven company. This is the first official move that has been made by the railroad in the present Sound traffic rivalry.

With the return of President Clark from abroad steamboat men have been expecting a move of some importance, and this action is looked upon generally as the first step in a rate war that will eventually put the New Haven line out of business. With the exception of the New Haven line there is at present no corporation that is interfering with the Consolidated road interests on Long Island Sound, and it is not believed by either boat or railroad men that the resistance of the New Haven Steamboat Company will be either very long or very vigorous. The control of the boat line is in the hands of a few men who are also interested in the Boston & Albany road, and it is believed that a compromise is the logical way out.

The health of your family should be considered

In the quality of Groceries you buy, especially when you can buy First-class Groceries at less price than you pay for poor goods. Our Twenty-Two Stores in New England allow us to keep our goods always fresh and give them at the lowest prices.

BUTTER AND EGGS—If you are troubled to get FRESH EGGS and "high flavored FRESH BUTTER, you will always find that you can buy these goods at our stores, as we receive them fresh from the farmers daily.

SOME SPECIAL PRICES FOR THIS WEEK—Although OLIVES are extremely high, we still keep the prices down to 5c., 10c., 15c., 20c., 25c. and 30c. per bottle. 20c. bottle Pickles, 10c.; Russell's Root Beer Extract, 3 bottles for 25c.; "Bunker Hill" Rolled Oats, per package, 10c.; Ginger Snaps, per pound, 5c.; 1 bars BEST Soaps, unwrapped, 10c.; Elite Cereal Coffee, per pound package, 15c.; Prem's Wheat Wafers, 2 pound package, 10c.; Soups, per can, 10c.; Fancy brands salid packed Tomatoes, per can, 7c.

TEAS AND COFFEES—There is no need of paying 75c. to $1 per pound for Tea, and there is no need of paying 30c. to 40c. per pound for Coffee. If the Teas we sell at 35c. to 17c. per pound, and the coffees we sell from 20c. to 25c. per pound are not better than that you can buy at any price, you may keep the goods, and we will refund the money.

FLOUR—If you want the best bread flour you ever used, that will make more bread to the barrel, keep moist, and better for your health, use RUSSELL'S XXXX FAMILY FLOUR.

NOTICE!

The celebrated demonstrator, or corset fitter, Miss Marsh of New York

Will be with us for two weeks to show the merits of the wonderful

HER MAJESTY'S CORSET.

Now is the time to be fitted without cost, to the only corset warranted not to break.

HER MAJESTY'S CORSET.

Best for Summer Wear.

There are several very good reasons why HER MAJESTY'S SUMMER CORSET is proving so popular. It is strong; it is light; it is cool; it is comfortable. Women who wear it testify to this. Few who once adopt it ever change back to any other. No other corset fills the bill so perfectly. No other summer corset begins to match it in merit.

We would like to have you examine HER MAJESTY'S SUMMER style the first time you are in the store.
